Promoting Dialogue and Democracy in Post Conflict Liberia

Tarnue Johnson, 2006-10-12

Organization of the book The book has been organized into five chapters excluding these introductory sections One important fact to mention here is that this book is a compilation of a series of microethnographic studies about adult learning and social change in Liberia The idea of change through open systems of thought and democratic discourse runs through the book as an organizing theme Chapter one maintains that through critical consciousness and dialectical thought processes as posited in the field of developmental psychology human beings can become motivated and empowered thereby enhancing a profound process of structural and institutional change Thus what weaves the different sections of this chapter together into a coherent whole is the suggestion that the main challenge of post war development in Liberia is to modify the influence of existing historical and contemporary institutions by building upon and refining those aspects that appeal to our rational instincts and sense of modernity such as the need to change and improve the way we interpret the meaning of our experiences so that we may become co creators of our historical destiny Chapter two builds on the first chapter in very significant ways including how the breakdown of reasoned discourse due to selfishness can lead to innumerable consequences for human social systems and civilizations This chapter is primarily an imaginary dialogue about the relationship between our various definitions of self and the emergence of tragedy in Liberian society I attempted here to gauge the social anthropological question as to how best to maintain or restore a stable balance between the imperatives of selfhood and the ethics of collective social action A major hypothesis emanating from this heuristic approach is that the Hobbesian dilemma posed by random disorder arising from the urge to self preservation can be somewhat restrained by balancing communal interest with individual autonomy within the context of a deliberative democracy The dialogue in the chapter primarily reflects a variety of sources and methods across the social science disciplines It is further viewed as an exercise in learning and criticism as David Bohm and Hans Georg Gadamer would understand these terms see chapter three The dialogue also resembles a Socratic type dialogue in which the reasoning process that leads to the elimination of contradictions in thought is more important than the mere presentation of facts The aim of this chapter as with other chapters in this book is to highlight the importance and means of facilitating personal and social transformation in a postconflict situation in Liberia. In the context of adult participants in learning and civil society this transformation can come about by facilitating movements toward more developmentally advanced meaning schemes and perspectives. Mezirow 1995 Chapter three is about the constitution of legitimate governance arrangements that embrace participatory models of development. One of the central theses of the chapter is that the process of change in Liberia should be undergirded by rationally based institutional rules and norms. This process of building legitimacy requires meaning construction within the framework of agreed upon procedures and modes of justifications to arrive at tentative best judgments and paradigms. Through this process of democratic discourse we can internalize processes of legitimacy change and constitutional self governance. Like chapter four the chapter concludes that democratic elections in Liberia are only but the beginnings of a process of structural and institutional transf

Race and the City Shanti Fernando, 2011-11-01 In Race and the City Shanti Fernando presents an elegant analysis of the mechanisms of political mobilization under systemic racism that draws on case studies, interviews and a detailed understanding of the racialized legal and sociocultural histories of both the United States and Canada. She argues that while increasing diversity may be a challenge for systemic inclusiveness it is one that must be met if Canada is to uphold its vision of a truly democratic society

Interdisciplinarity, Multidisciplinarity and Transdisciplinarity in Humanities Eugene Steele, 2016-02-29 The domination of single subjects in academic programmes and institutions has recently been called into question. Literary studies are currently opening themselves up to the epistemological renewal that other fields can offer. They are increasingly borrowing theoretical tools from other subjects in order to analyse the historical socio political and institutional conditions of the production of literary texts to identify the general discursive circumstances in which they emerge and to study the relationship between literature and other media. Similarly while subjects such as sociology, history and political science have always been closely related if not literally spinoffs from one another as in the case of sociology vis vis anthropology what becomes of their specificities when they borrow from geography to address space related issues from psychology to understand social actors individual motivations or from literary studies to make sense of individual or collective narratives. The present volume accounts for experiments in research that overstep disciplinary boundaries by analysing the new fields and methodologies emerging in the contemporary globalised academic environment which puts a strong premium on synergism and linkages. Moreover it assesses current theoretical reflections on inter multi and transdisciplinarity as well as research grounded in it and measures their impact on the evolution of scholarship and curriculum in the fields of literature, language and humanities

Screening Gender Heike Paul, 2007

Exploring the Dimensions of Human Sexuality Jerrold S. Greenberg, Clint E. Bruess, Sara B. Oswalt, 2014

Women in Public Administration of the American States Sharada Rath, 1998 The book analyses the administrative value of women state administrators in America. On the basis of this analysis the author has drawn the conclusion that although upward career mobility of women in administration is less due to the glass ceiling bar gender variation does not exist so far as political acuity efficiency and managerial competency of women administrators are concerned
