

2. Chapter 20 Item 1: A-1 Communication (Non-United Kingdom)

The 1970s saw the British political system was subject to radical change. Communication played a key role in these developments.

The 1970s Communication Revolution

Some of the reasons that people began to distrust governments include:

- High cost of borrowing/budgets
- Inflation
- High interest
- 1975-1979 political and social crisis — energy shortages, food shortages

New Regime — criticism of government quickly became more serious, radical, and sustained because after 1979 the government responded to all 3 items. People began to see the government, government, ERM, energy shortages.

The Communication Revolution by the late 1970s had effectively given politicians and voters a new media space. Politicians had to be more visible and more active in the public eye.

People began to see politicians as more active and more visible. People began to see politicians as more active and more visible. People began to see politicians as more active and more visible.
