Thistlethwaite, 2010-11-17 In the Garden of Eden, Adam and Eve were tempted to take a bite out of an apple that promised them the knowledge of good and evil. Today, a shiny apple with a bite out of it is the symbol of Apple Computers. The age of the Internet has speeded up human knowledge, and it also provides even more temptation to know more than may be good for us. Americans have been right at the forefront of the digital revolution, and we have felt its unsettling effects in both our religions and our politics. Susan Brooks Thistlethwaite argues that we long to return to the innocence of the Garden of Eden and not be faced with countless digital choices. But returning to the innocence of Eden is dangerous in this modern age, and instead, we can become wiser about the wired world.

In a world increasingly anti-Christian, how can you communicate in a way that slides under listener's defenses? How can you leave them hungry for more? But many Christians reject stories as just for kids. Christine Dillon has trained thousands of people in storytelling. 10 myths come up over and over again, and they block Christians from using this life-changing ministry tool. MYTH 1: Adults won't listen to stories. MYTH 2: Stories are only for non-literate cultures. MYTH 3: Men won't listen to stories. MYTH 6: Storytelling won't grow mature disciples. MYTH 8: Storytelling will lead to heresy. Using stories from around the world, Dillon tackles each myth and challenges you to master this tool. This book is also available in both forms of written Chinese.
