What was the Renaissance

The Renaissance was a time period estimated to be between 1450 to 1650 in Europe. It was between the Middle Ages and modern times.

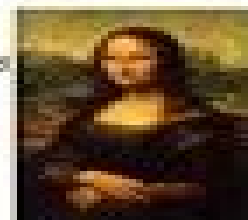

"Coming out of the dark"

The Middle Ages began when the Roman Empire started to fall. Much of the advanced in science, art, and government made by the Greeks and Romans were lost during this time. Sometimes, the Middle Ages were called the "Dark Ages" because so much of what people had learned before was lost.

The Renaissance was a time of "coming out of the dark." It was a rebirth of education, science, art, literature, music, and a better life for people overall.

A movement

One of the biggest parts of the Renaissance was a cultural change called humanism. Humanism was a philosophy that everyone should strive to be educated and learn in classic art, literature, and even science. It took for as much realism as possible with human emotion in all art. It was said that it was okay for people to pursue comfort, riches, even beauty.

Started in Italy

The Renaissance began in Florence, Italy, and went to other cities in Italy. There are many reasons it began in Italy, but a big one was because of the history of Rome and the Roman Empire. Another reason it began in Italy was because Italy was very wealthy, which also made the wealthy willing to spend their money on artists and geniuses.
