Corbisiero,Salvatore Monaco,Elisabetta Ruspini,2022-06-23 This book examines the lifestyles expectations and plans of Millennials and Generation Z and how they are redefining tourism It demonstrates that if the tourism industry is to enjoy future growth it must understand and meet the particular needs of these two generations The volume explores the present and future challenges faced by the tourism industry as a result of the generational turnover and seeks to answer the following questions What contribution can the new generations make to the future of tourism How are technological advancements and social networks shaping future travel trends Can a generational perspective be useful to help the tourism industry recover from the COVID 19 crisis The book will be of interest to researchers and students of sociology and tourism studies as well as tourism professionals

The State and Cosmopolitan Responsibilities Richard Beardsworth,Garrett Wallace Brown,Richard Shapcott,2019 This book explores the role that states might play in promoting a cosmopolitan condition as an agent of cosmopolitanism rather than an obstacle to it In doing so the book seeks to develop recent arguments in favour of locating cosmopolitan moral and political responsibility at the state level as either an alternative to or a corollary of cosmopolitanism as it is more commonly understood qua requiring transnational or global bearers of responsibility As a result the contributions in this volume see an on going role for the state but also its transformation perhaps only partially into a more cosmopolitan minded institution instead of a purely national or particularistic one It therefore makes the case that the state as a form of political community can be reconciled with various form of cosmopolitan responsibility In this way the book will address the question of how states in the present and in the future can be better bearers of cosmopolitan responsibilities
