formal models of the evolution of signalling systems and the co evolution of pragmatics and grammar The range of approaches adopted reflects the interdisciplinary nature of the field with insights from linguistics philosophy psychology and primatology

Campaigns and Voters in Developing Democracies Noam Lupu, Virginia Oliveros, Luis Schiumerini, 2019-02-26

Voting behavior is informed by the experience of advanced democracies yet the electoral context in developing democracies is significantly different Civil society is often weak poverty and inequality high political parties ephemeral and attachments to them weak corruption rampant and clientelism widespread Voting decisions in developing democracies follow similar logics to those in advanced democracies in that voters base their choices on group affiliation issue positions valence considerations and campaign persuasion Yet developing democracies differ in the weight citizens assign to these considerations Where few social identity groups are politically salient and partisan attachments are sparse voters may place more weight on issue voting Where issues are largely absent from political discourse valence considerations and campaign effects play a larger role Campaigns and Voters in Developing Democracies develops a theoretical framework to specify why voter behavior differs across contexts
