

Short Answer Questions

Question 1

Organizations pursuing change take the business environment into account as they seek to gain or enhance effective business performance. But is being aware of, reacting to, and responding to the environment necessary?

- a. It is because organizations are important stakeholders. Owners or other stakeholders, and not other stakeholders, are the business. It is the responsibility of management to understand the needs of all stakeholders and to develop strategies for meeting them effectively and efficiently. And "they matter" is a statement of the business environment.
- b. It is because the business environment is a business strategy. There are many ways to respond to the business environment, and it is important to have a plan for the business strategy and performance management.
- c. The business environment is based on relationships with suppliers, customers, and other stakeholders. The best response to the business environment is to be aware of it and respond to it.
