Zaytsev, 2019-05-10 This book examines the waves of protest that broke out in the 2010s as the collective actions of self organized publics Drawing on theories of publics counter publics and developing an analytical framework that allows the comparison of different country cases this volume explores the transformation from spontaneous demonstrations driven by civic outrage against injustice to more institutionalized forms of protest Presenting comparative research and case studies on e g the Portuguese Generation in Trouble the Arab Spring in Northern Africa or Occupy Wall Street in the USA the authors explore how protest publics emerge and evolve in very different ways from creating many small citizen groups focused on particular projects to more articulated political agendas for both state and society These protest publics have provoked and legitimized concrete socio political changes altering the balance of power in specific political spaces and in some cases generating profound moments of instability that can lead both to revolutions and to peaceful transformations of political institutions The authors argue that this recent wave of protests is driven by a new type of social actor self organized publics In some cases these protest publics can lead to democratic reform and redistributive policies while in others they can produce destabilization ethnic and nationalist populism and authoritarianism This book will help readers to better understand how seemingly spontaneous public events and protests evolve into meaningful well structured collective action and come to shape political processes in diverse regions of the globe

Improving the Delivery of Pre-exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) to Eliminate Vertical HIV Transmission Dvora

Joseph Davey, Benjamin Chi, Irene Njuguna, Jillian Pintye, Friday Saidi, 2024-10-30 Over half of HIV infections globally occur among cisgender women High HIV incidence among young ie 15 30 years old African cisgender women persists during pregnancy and postpartum and there is evidence that HIV acquisition risk more than doubles during this period A new HIV infection has important short and long term consequences for the mother s health Acute maternal HIV infection is also associated with increased vertical transmission risk making prevention of HIV among pregnant and breastfeeding populations a global health priority As access to antiretroviral therapy continues to expand new and often undiagnosed maternal HIV infections during pregnancy and breastfeeding contribute to a growing proportion of new pediatric HIV cases and urgent focus of interventions to eliminate vertical HIV transmission To address this important gap The World Health Organization WHO and several national HIV programs recommend offering pre exposure prophylaxis PrEP to pregnant and breastfeeding populations at substantial risk for HIV To fully realize the promise of PrEP in antenatal and postnatal settings however real world clinical and implementation data are urgently needed Further there is a need for research on novel long acting tools that prevent HIV acquisition in all populations including pregnant and breastfeeding populations
