Animal Personification For Kids:

The Significance of Children and Animals O. Gene Myers, 2007 Rev ed of Children and animals 1998 A Study Guide for Charles Johnson's "Menagerie, A Child's Fable" Gale, Cengage Learning, 2002 A Study Guide for Charles Johnson's Menagerie A Child's Fable excerpted from Gale's acclaimed Short Stories for Students This concise study guide includes plot summary character analysis author biography study questions historical context suggestions for further reading and much more For any literature project trust Short Stories for Students for all of your research needs Animals and Other People Heather Keenleyside, 2016-11-21 In Animals and Other People Heather Keenleyside argues for the central role of literary modes of knowledge in apprehending animal life Keenleyside focuses on writers who populate their poetry novels and children's stories with conspicuously figurative animals experiment with conventional genres like the beast fable and write the lives of mice as well as men From such writers including James Thomson Daniel Defoe Jonathan Swift Laurence Sterne Anna Letitia Barbauld and others she recovers a key insight about the representation of living beings when we think and write about animals we are never in the territory of strictly literal description relying solely on the evidence of our senses Indeed any description of animals involves personification of a sort if we understand personification not as a rhetorical ornament but as a fundamental part of our descriptive and conceptual repertoire essential for distinguishing living beings from things Throughout the book animals are characterized by a distinctive mode of agency and generality they are at once moving and being moved at once individual beings and generic or species figures every cat is also The Cat Animals thus become figures with which to think about key philosophical questions about the nature of human agency and of social and political community They also come into view as potential participants in that community as one sort of people among others Demonstrating the centrality of animals to an eighteenth century literary and philosophical tradition Animals and Other People also argues for the importance of this tradition to current discussions of what life is and how we might live together

Imagining Animals Caroline Case, 2025-07-30 This classic edition of Imagining Animals explores how the making of animal images in art therapy and child psychotherapy can act as a powerful catalyst for children who may be struggling with communication Readers will benefit from learning about the different ways that animal symbolism can support autistic children and children navigating trauma abuse and depression in engaging with the therapeutic process This essential book explores two contrasting primitive states of mind throughout the investing of the world around us with life through animism and participation mystique and the lifeless world in the states of mind encountered in children who are hard to reach Featuring a new introduction by the author subjects covered in subsequent chapters include but are not limited to Animal human relationships Animal symbolism Animals on stage in therapy and anthropomorphic animal objects Three dimensional clay work The location of the self in animals Imagining Animals offers a unique insight into the role and representation of animal imagery in art therapy and child psychotherapy This is an essential read for all arts and play therapists working with children as well as adult psychotherapists interested in the use of imagery

Pretending and Imagination in Animals and Children Robert W. Mitchell, 2002-02-21 It is well known that children's activities are full of pretending and imagination but it is less appreciated that animals can also show similar activities Originally published in 2002 this book focuses on comparing and contrasting children's and animals' pretenses and imaginative activities In the text overviews of research present conflicting interpretations of children's understanding of the psychology of pretense and describe sociocultural factors which influence children's pretenses Studies of nonhuman primates provide examples of their pretenses and other simulative activities explore their representational and imaginative capacities and compare their skills with children Although the psychological requirements for pretending are controversial evidence presented in this volume suggests that great apes and even monkeys may share capacities for imagination with children and that children's early pretenses may be less psychological than they appear

Young Children's Thinking about Biological World Giyoo Hatano, Kayoko Inagaki, 2013-04-15 Presents research on the topic of young children's naive biology examining such theoretical issues as processes conditions and mechanisms in conceptual development using the development of biological understanding as the target case

Talking Animals in British Children's Fiction, 1786-1914 Tess Cosslett, 2017-03-02 In her reappraisal of canonical works such as Black Beauty Beautiful Joe Wind in the Willows and Peter Rabbit Tess Cosslett traces how nineteenth century debates about the human and animal intersected with or left their mark on the venerable genre of the animal story written for children Effortlessly applying a range of critical approaches from Bakhtinian ideas of the carnivalesque to feminist postcolonial and ecocritical theory she raises important questions about the construction of the child reader the qualifications of the implied author and the possibilities of children's literature compared with literature written for adults Perhaps most crucially Cosslett examines how the issues of animal speech and animal subjectivity were managed at a time when the possession of language and consciousness had become a vital sign of the difference between humans and animals Topics of great contemporary concern such as the relation of the human and the natural masculine and feminine child and adult are investigated within their nineteenth century contexts making this an important book for nineteenth century scholars children's literature specialists and historians of science and childhood

Talking Animals in Children's Fiction Catherine

Elick,2015-03-07 Talking animal tales have conveyed anticruelty messages since the 18th century beginnings of children s literature Yet only in the modern period have animal characters become true subjects rather than objects of human neglect or benevolence Modern fantasies reflect the shift from animal welfare to animal rights in 20th century public discourse This revolution in literary animal human relations began with Lewis Carroll s Alice s Adventures in Wonderland and continued with the work of Kenneth Grahame Hugh Lofting P L Travers and E B White Beginning with the ideas of literary theorist Mikhail Mikhailovich Bakhtin this book examines ways in which animal characters gain an aura of authority through using language and then participate in reversals of power The author provides a close reading of 10 acclaimed British and American children s fantasies or series published before 1975 Authors whose work has received little scholarly attention are also covered including Robert Lawson George Selden and Robert C O Brien

Children of the Series and how They Grew, Or, A Century of Heroines and Heroes, Romantic, Comic, Moral Faye Riter Kensinger,1987 Children s series fiction comprises tales incorporating innocence and hard reality along with romance wit and character Heavy streaks of morality diminished as the entertainment element increased Heroes performed in a wide range of adventures but restrictions often kept heroines close to home Series fiction peaked then waned but such writers as Beverly Cleary and Madeleine L Engle carried on the style

Mathematical and Analogical Reasoning of Young Learners Lyn D. English, 2004-07-19 Mathematical and Analogical

Reasoning of Young Learners provides foundational knowledge of the nature development and assessment of mathematical and analogical reasoning in young children Reasoning is fundamental to understanding mathematics and is identified as one of the 10 key standards for school mathematics for the new millennium The book draws on longitudinal and cross cultural studies conducted in the United States and Australia of children's reasoning development as they progressed from preschool through the end of second grade The multifaceted analysis of young children's development of mathematical and analogical reasoning focuses on individual learners their learning environments and the interaction between the two The multidisciplinary team of authors present multiple perspectives and multiple methodologies and provide valuable information on organizing and sustaining interdisciplinary and cross cultural inquiry Key issues addressed include the relationship between mathematical and analogical reasoning how changes in children's reasoning relate to the implicit instruction they receive in their classrooms analyses of the participating teachers knowledge beliefs and practices with respect to mathematical and analogical reasoning of young learners and ways in which we might promote development of mathematical and analogical reasoning in young children This volume is highly relevant for mathematics educators researchers in mathematics education educational psychologists early childhood teachers and others interested in mathematical development of young children in particular the development of their reasoning processes Constructing

(in)competence Dana Kovarsky, Madeline Maxwell, Judith F. Duchan, 2013-06-17 Competence and incompetence are constructs that emerge in the social milieu of everyday life Individuals are continually making and revising judgments about each other's abilities as they interact The flexible situated view of competence conveyed by the research of the authors in this volume is a departure from the way that competence is usually thought about in the fields of communication disabilities and education In the social constructivist view competence is not a fixed mass residing within an individual or a fixed judgment defined externally Rather it is variable sensitive to what is going on in the here and now and coconstructed by those present Constructions of competence are tied to evaluations implicit in the communication of the participants as well as to explicit evaluations of how things are going The authors address the social construction of competence in a variety of situations engaging in therapy for communication and other disorders working and living with people with disabilities speaking a second language living with deafness and giving and receiving instruction Their studies focus on adults and children including those with disabilities aphasia traumatic brain injury augmentative systems users as they go about managing their lives and identities They examine the all important context in which participants make competence judgments assess the impact of implicit judgments and formal diagnoses and look at the types of evaluations made during interaction This book makes an argument all helping professionals need to hear institutional clinical and social practices promoting judgments must be changed to practices that are more positive and empowering Ethics and Children's Literature Claudia Mills, 2016-05-13 Exploring the ethical questions posed by in and about children's literature this collection examines the way texts intended for children raise questions of value depict the moral development of their characters and call into attention shared moral presuppositions The essays in Part I look at various past attempts at conveying moral messages to children and interrogate their underlying assumptions What visions of childhood were conveyed by explicit attempts to cultivate specific virtues in children What unstated cultural assumptions were expressed by growing resistance to didacticism How should we prepare children to respond to racism in their books and in their society Part II takes up the ethical orientations of various classic and contemporary texts including prosaic ethics in the Hundred Acre Wood moral discernment in Narnia ethical recognition in the distant worlds traversed by L Engle and virtuous transgression in recent Anglo American children's literature and in the emerging children's literature of 1960s Taiwan Part

III s essays engage in ethical criticism of arguably problematic messages about our relationship to nonhuman animals about war and about prejudice The final section considers how we respond to children s literature with ethically focused essays exploring a range of ways in which child readers and adult authorities react to children s literature Even as children s literature has evolved in opposition to its origins in didactic Sunday school tracts and moralizing fables authors parents librarians and scholars remain sensitive to the values conveyed to children through the texts they choose to share with them

Facts and Phases of Animal Life Verson S. Morwood,1883 Cognition In Children Usha Goswami,2014-04-04 This textbook aims to provide a selective but representative review of work in cognitive development grouped around themes that are familiar from textbooks of adult cognition The book focuses on the question of what develops rather than on why it develops The findings of a given experimental study what develops are generally fixed but the interpretation of what particular findings mean why is fluid Some of the experiments discussed in this book have alternative explanations and every student interested in children s cognition is invited to develop their own ideas about what different studies mean
