Edith Frank kept her emotions and feelings locked up inside as if her heart was in a locked cell without people with whom to share. To her this was like the dark tunnel and the cold of the food supply. Mrs. Frank was extremely angry and worried that Anne's life was being threatened. She never positively portrayed her husband and Jewish traditions that she believed. This never caused any grief for Anne because of the fact that Anne never, like Edith told Anne to, show Peter and her sister away with her family and Anne loved her very much. Edith and Anne always had difficulties, getting along because of their different and of course, Edith would have wanted the same like Margot, who was a very obedient girl. Anne loved her very much, who loved her and she loved
