Discriminating Data Wendy Hui Kyong Chun, 2021-11-02 How big data and machine learning encode discrimination and create agitated clusters of comforting rage In Discriminating Data Wendy Hui Kyong Chun reveals how polarization is a goal not an error within big data and machine learning These methods she argues encode segregation eugenics and identity politics through their default assumptions and conditions Correlation which grounds big data's predictive potential stems from twentieth century eugenic attempts to breed a better future Recommender systems foster angry clusters of sameness through homophily Users are trained to become authentically predictable via a politics and technology of recognition Machine learning and data analytics thus seek to disrupt the future by making disruption impossible Chun who has a background in systems design engineering as well as media studies and cultural theory explains that although machine learning algorithms may not officially include race as a category they embed whiteness as a default Facial recognition technology for example relies on the faces of Hollywood celebrities and university undergraduates groups not famous for their diversity Homophily emerged as a concept to describe white U S resident attitudes to living in biracial yet segregated public housing Predictive policing technology deploys models trained on studies of predominantly underserved neighborhoods Trained on selected and often discriminatory or dirty data these algorithms are only validated if they mirror this data How can we release ourselves from the vice like grip of discriminatory data Chun calls for alternative algorithms defaults and interdisciplinary coalitions in order to desegregate networks and foster a more democratic big data
