Architecture And Film:

Architecture and Film Mark Lamster, 2000 An examination of the ways in which architecture and architects are treated on screen and how these depictions filter and shape the ways we understand the built environment There are essays from contributors from a range of disciplines and interviews of those working behind the scenes Film, Architecture and

Spatial Imagination Renée Tobe, 2016-08-25 Films use architecture as visual shorthand to tell viewers everything they need to know about the characters in a short amount of time Illustrated by a diverse range of films from different eras and cultures this book investigates the reciprocity between film and architecture Using a phenomenological approach it describes how we the viewers can learn how to read architecture and design in film in order to see the many inherent messages Architecture's representational capacity contributes to the plausibility or reality possible in film The book provides an ontological understanding that clarifies and stabilizes the reciprocity of the actual world and a filmic world of illusion and human imagination thereby shedding light on both film and architecture Walls Have Feelings Katherine Shonfield, 2003-09-02

For the first time this book brings the insights methodologies and visions of film to the practice of architecture Walls Have Feelings poses unanswered questions from our immediate past crucial for the future of the city what was the cultural mindset leading to the triumph of Brutalism What is the urban and domestic impact of large scale office building Are there alternatives to the planners city of object and Why does your flat leak This book uniquely brings to bear questions of urgent cultural relevance on critical design decisions As such it is of as much importance to architects planners and students of design as to students of cultural history geography and all enthusiasts of cities and of film Architecture and Science-Fiction Film David T. Fortin, 2016-12-05 The home is one of our most enduring human paradoxes and is brought to light tellingly in science fiction SF writing and film However while similarities and crossovers between architecture and SF have proliferated throughout the past century the home is often overshadowed by the spectacle of otherness The study of the familiar home within the alien SF creates a unique cultural lens through which to reflect on our current architectural condition SF has always been linked with alienation however the conditions of such alienation and hence notions of home have evidently changed There is often a perceived comprehension of the familiar that atrophies the inquisitive and interpretive processes commonly activated when confronting the unfamiliar Thus by utilizing the estranging qualities of SF to look at a concept inherently linked to its perceived opposite the home a unique critical analysis with particular relevance for contemporary architecture is made possible Architecture and Film Mark Lamster, 2013-07-02 Architecture and Film looks at the ways architecture and architects are treated on screen and conversely how these depictions filter and shape the ways we understand the built environment It also examines the significant effect that the film industry has had on the American public's perception of urban suburban and rural spaces Contributors to this collection of essays come from a wide range of disciplines Nancy Levinson from Harvard Design Magazine writes on how films from The Fountainhead to Jungle
