closely bound to the text those of conductor composer Otakar Ostril reveal a stance that privileged the music and given their creator's orchestral experience are more reminiscent of the symphonic poem Fibich in his staged works and Josef Suk composer violinist and Dvořák's son-in-law in his incidental music reflect variously late nineteenth century Romanticism the influence of Wagner and early manifestations of Impressionism In its more recent guise the principles of the staged melodrama reside quite comfortably in the film score Judith A Mabary's important volume will be of interest not only to musicologists but those working in Central and East European studies voice studies European theatre and those studying music and nationalism
