Question 1

Organizations pursuing change take the business environment into account as they seek to gain or enhance effective business performance. But is being aware and reacting to an environment controlling change?

- a. It is because organizations are important environmental agencies in other, not itself, and not what they do. The business world is increasingly fragmented in a way that makes it difficult to determine the meaning and substance of change, and what that means for organizations and business.
- b. It is because the environment is a business structure. There are many ways to interpret and understand change, and it is important to have a good understanding of change and its meaning.
- c. The business environment is based on relationships with people, places, and things. Other factors, like time, organization, and technology are also important in a business environment.
