

Chapter 6 Review Quiz with Answers

1. Which environmental technology is used in the following process system?

Water-based paint production instead of a gas-based paint production

2. List the six components used in P2P4. Which component is considered "upstream"?

The six components are:

- Process design
- Technology selection
- Specific technology selection strategy
- Energy
- Technology selection criteria and inputs
- Resource selection

The technology selection strategy is not necessarily upstream. The other five components are considered upstream.

3. Explain how water is a commodity. What is the most common source for industrial or municipal applications? How does this source fit in P2P4? How is it related to the other components of P2P4?

Water is a commodity because it is used in a wide range of applications.

4. Water is a commodity. Explain what this means. Why is it important to consider water in P2P4? How is it related to the other components of P2P4?

Water is a commodity because it is used in a wide range of applications.

5. What are P2P4 components? Explain what they are and how they are related to P2P4.

The six components are: Process design, Technology selection, Specific technology selection strategy, Energy, Technology selection criteria and inputs, and Resource selection. They are related to P2P4 because they are all used in the production of a product or service.

6. Why do we use P2P4? Explain the advantages and disadvantages of the P2P4 approach.

P2P4 provides a structured approach to the design and development of a process. It is a systematic approach that helps to identify the key components of a process and to evaluate the trade-offs between them. It is a useful tool for process design and optimization.

7. What are the key components of P2P4? Explain how they are related to P2P4.
