Identification Revolution Alan Gelb, Anna Diofasi Metz, 2018-01-16 Some 600 million children worldwide do not legally exist Without verifiable identification they and unregistered adults could face serious difficulties in proving their identity whether to open a bank account purchase a SIM card or cast a vote Lack of identification is a barrier to full economic and social inclusion Recent advances in the reach and technological sophistication of identification systems have been nothing less than revolutionary Since 2000 over 60 developing countries have established national ID programs Digital technology particularly biometrics such as fingerprints and iris scans has dramatically expanded the capabilities of these programs Individuals can now be uniquely identified and reliably authenticated against their claimed identities By enabling governments to work more effectively and transparently identification is becoming a tool for accelerating development progress Not only is provision of legal identity for all a target under the Sustainable Development Goals but this book shows how it is also central to achieving numerous other SDG targets Yet challenges remain Identification systems can fail to include the poor leaving them still unable to exercise their rights access essential services or fully participate in political and economic life The possible erosion of privacy and the misuse of personal data especially in countries that lack data privacy laws or the capacity to enforce them is another challenge Yet another is ensuring that investments in identification systems deliver a development payoff There are all too many examples where large expenditures sometimes supported by donor governments or agencies appear to have had little impact

Identification Revolution Can Digital ID be Harnessed for Development offers a balanced perspective on this new area covering both the benefits and the risks of the identification revolution as well as pinpointing opportunities to mitigate those risks Multimodality and Social Interaction in Online and Offline Shopping Gitte Rasmussen, Theo van Leeuwen, 2023-09-29 This collection brings together social semiotic ethnographic and conversation analytic approaches to multimodality in global studies of shopping drawing on the rich diversity of the latest multimodal methods to critically reflect on shopping as a cornerstone of contemporary social life The volume explores shopping as an area of study in its own right with the buying and selling of goods and services a fundamental part of the social and cultural life of human communities for centuries The book looks at both online and offline shopping examining it as both everyday multi sensorial practice and its translation into the interactive text and imagery that comprise the online shopping experience from London street markets to Japanese grocery shops to Danish supermarkets to worldwide online shopping sites Highlighting the diversity of modern multimodal approaches through contributions from established scholars the book critically surveys both the challenges and opportunities in the embodied interactions between buyers and sellers and how these points of connection have been translated and will continue to transform in the age of algorithms and emergent technologies This book will appeal to students and scholars interested in multimodality multimodal conversation analysis social semiotics social interaction and retail studies
