Psychiatry and Decolonisation in Uganda Yolana Pringle, 2018-12-06 This open access book investigates psychiatry in Uganda during the years of decolonisation It examines the challenges facing a new generation of psychiatrists as they took over responsibility for psychiatry at the end of empire and explores the ways psychiatric practices were tied to shifting political and development priorities periods of instability and a broader context of transnational and international exchange At its heart is a question that has concerned psychiatrists globally since the mid twentieth century how to bridge the social and cultural gap between psychiatry and its patients Bringing together archival research with oral histories Yolana Pringle traces how this question came to dominate both national and international discussions on mental health care reform including at the World Health Organization and helped spur a culture of experimentation and creativity globally As Pringle shows however the history of psychiatry during the years of decolonisation remained one of marginality and ultimately in the context of war and violence the decolonisation of psychiatry was incomplete

International Partnerships for Strengthening Health Care Workforce Capacity: Models of Collaborative Education Jeanne Mahoney Leffers, Jennifer Gail Audette, Kevin S. Hardwick, William Van Cleve, 2018-07-31 A critical problem in resource scarce countries across the globe is the shortage of appropriately trained health care providers According to the World Health Organization the current global health workforce shortage of 7.2 million providers is estimated to increase to 12.9 million by 2035 This disproportionately affects resource scarce countries denying basic health care to millions and limiting access to life saving treatments Due to limited resources in these countries not enough health professionals receive training few have the opportunity for continuing education and the ability to develop or implement educational programs and curricula is constrained. Additionally, many existing providers choose to emigrate in pursuit of professional advancement opportunities, contributing to the overall shortage of qualified health care providers in these environments. Efforts to strengthen health workforce capacity not only increase access, safety, and availability of care but are critical to building resilient health systems capable of caring for the world's neediest populations. This requires not only cultivating new health care providers but also providing ongoing professional development to retain and support current providers, advancing the level of practice in accordance with current clinical science, cultivating educators, and enhancing training curricula. It is critical also to contribute to the limited body of research documenting the effectiveness and impact of various models of collaborative education and partnership to improve health worker training and retention. This Research Topic examines strategies for building health workforce capacity through the prism of educational partnerships, offering significant examples of effective models of international collaborative education as well as insight and guidance on the structure and operation of successful global partnerships. Collectively, the 31 articles accepted and included in this eBook represent a diversity of health professions and geographies across academic, non-governmental organizations, and other global partnership forms. The published manuscripts highlight various elements of partnerships with several consistent themes: emerging capacity building, local empowerment, mutual trust and respect, long-term commitment, equity, collaboration, and the importance of integrating theory and practice for a balance of academic and clinical development. The manuscripts provide examples of partnership and educational programs that are in the formative, early stages of implementation and others which have been sustained long-term, some for decades. The following eBook is divided into two parts, with each part broken down into sections. Part I of the eBook includes 18 manuscripts that showcase long-term educational programs that strongly exemplify multiple foundational aspects of international partnerships in education, including mutual collaboration and project management, empowerment of host partners to lead and sustain programs, and capacity building. While individual manuscripts included in Part I look broadly at multiple aspects of successful international partnerships in education, Part II manuscripts focus intently on one or two elements. Part II includes 13 articles that highlight partnership through short rather than long-term educational initiatives, as well as program development and broad academic partnerships. This Research Topic was sponsored by Health Volunteers Overseas, a United States-based non-profit that collaborates with over eighty international universities and health institutions to send volunteer health professionals to low-resource countries to provide continuing education, train-the-trainer courses, professional support, and consultation on academic program and curricula development.

Digital Technologies for Agricultural and Rural Development in the Global South Richard Duncombe, 2018-04-05. This book shares research and practice on current trends in digital technology for agricultural and rural development in the Global South. Growth of research in this field has been slower than the pace of change for practitioners, particularly in bringing socio-technical views of information technology and agricultural development.

perspectives together The contents are therefore structured around three main themes sharing information and knowledge for agricultural development information and knowledge intermediaries and facilitating change in agricultural systems and settings With contributions reaching beyond just a technological perspective the book also provides a consideration of social and cultural factors and new forms of organization and institutional change in agricultural and rural settings An invaluable read for researchers in international development socio economics and agriculture it forms a useful resource for practitioners working in the area
