Application Forms For 2016 In Stellenbosch:

Space and planning in secondary cities Lochner Marais, Verna Nel, 2019-09-01 Much of the urban research focuses on the large metropolitan areas in South Africa This book assesses spatial planning in the second tier cities of the country Secondary cities are vital as they perform essential regional and in some cases global economic roles and help to distribute the population of a country more evenly across its surface Apartheid planning left South African cities fragmented segregated and with low densities Post apartheid policies aim to reverse these realities by emphasising integration higher densities and upgrading Achieving these aims has been challenging and often the historical patterns continue The evidence shows that two opposing patterns prevail namely increased densities and continued urban sprawl This book presents ten case studies of spatial planning and spatial transformation in secondary cities of South Africa The book frames these case studies against complexity theory and suggests that the post apartheid response to apartheid planning represents a linear deviation from history The ten case studies then reveal how difficult it is for local decision makers to find appropriate responses and how current responses often result in contradictory results Often these cities are highly vulnerable and they find it difficult to plan in the context of uncertainty The book also highlights how these cities find it difficult to stand on their own against the influence of interest groups property developers mining companies traditional authorities other spheres of government The main reasons include weak municipal finance statements the dependence on national and provincial government for capital expenditure limited investment in infrastructure maintenance the lack of planning capacity the inability to implement plans and the unintended and sometimes contrary outcomes of post apartheid planning policies Uitlanders in Stellenbosch Patricia Johnson-Castle, 2025-01-26 The Fallist student movements in South Africa 2015 2016 ignited intense debates about language and exclusion at Stellenbosch University This ethnographic research explores the complex social dynamics at the university revealing how language and race intertwine fracture and sometimes even bridge divides Drawing on interviews observations and conversations the study uncovers the historical roots of persistent segregation between white students and their Black Coloured and Indian peers It also highlights English's privileged status as a gateway to international opportunities particularly for white Afrikaans speaking students considering emigration The research grapples with questions of historical responsibility for today's white Afrikaans speaking South Africans and examines the implications of increased English instruction at Stellenbosch By exploring the construction of whiteness the navigation of social risks and the dynamics of power this work offers a multifaceted perspective on the evolving linguistic landscape at this historically Afrikaans institution Few universities in the world have had the privilege of being studied by as talented a scholar as Patricia Johnston Castle and this in such an erudite manner as the University of Stellenbosch is subjected to in this book But this book is as much about the University of Stellenbosch as it is about the wine town of Stellenbosch in South Africa It is as about South Africa's 30yr old attempt to transform from Apartheid to democracy from division to unity from racism to anti racism

This is an ethnographic study of the relationship between identity and belonging. It is set within the academic discipline of anthropology. And yet this is a book that seeks to revolutionise anthropology itself, taking anthropology from and beyond the focus on the so-called savage tribes of the world. Here is an anthropological study that departs from the conventional. Instead of the usual and well-established anthropological path of studying the lower other, this book studies the most elite and dominant groups in South African society: the Afrikaners and one of the dearest institutions ever, the University of Stellenbosch. This scholarly book is as riveting as it is unputdownable. Professor Tinyiko Maluleke, Theologian, leading academic, Vice-Chancellor and Principal, Tshwane University of Technology, Patricia Johnson, Castle's Uitlanders in Stellenbosch, is a vital contribution to critical whiteness studies, offering a historically grounded and politically engaged ethnography of race, language, identity and belonging at Stellenbosch University. Her fieldwork took place at the height of South Africa's post-apartheid racial and economic justice activism, exemplified by the RhodesMustFall and FeesMustFall student movements. Through an empirically rich exploration of everyday student life, Johnson Castle sensitively unearths the racial and linguistic hierarchies and exclusions that pervade a university setting where Afrikaner identity remains dominant. By highlighting the perspectives of students from diverse backgrounds, she reveals how whiteness functions through a complex set of practices that impact both those who benefit from it and those resisting its influence. This work provides a nuanced understanding of South Africa's ongoing struggle for transformation and is essential reading for anyone interested in social justice and the anthropology of race and identity in southern Africa and beyond.

Vito Laterza is Associate Professor in Global Development at the University of Agder, Norway, and a 2024-2025 Visiting Fellow at the Swedish Collegium for Advanced Study. The Decolonization of Knowledge Jonathan D. Jansen, Cyril A. Walters, 2022-06-30. In 2015, students at the University of Cape Town used the slogan RhodesMustFall to demand that a monument of Cecil John Rhodes, the empire builder of British South Africa, be removed from the university campus. Soon, students at Oxford University called for the removal of a statue of Rhodes from Oriel College. The radical idea of decolonization at the forefront of these student protests continues to be a key element in South African educational institutions as well as those in Europe and North America. This book explores the uptake of decolonization in the institutional curriculum given the political demands for decolonization on South African campuses and the generally positive reception of the idea by university leaders. Based on interviews with more than two hundred academic teachers at ten universities, this is an innovative account of how institutions have engaged with, subverted and transformed the decolonization movement since RhodesMustFall.

Beyond the Mountain B. Camminga, Zethu Matebeni, 2023-02-10. Beyond The Mountain: Queer Life in Africa's Gay Capital contributes to the body of knowledge on the lived experiences of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer and intersex LGBTQI communities in Cape Town. The book provides insight on the lives of the LGBTQI communities in Cape Town and challenges the stereotypes and prejudices against these communities. The chapters consist of both narratives of lived experiences and academic discussions presented by novice as well as experienced scholars The imagery of beyond the mountain is a depiction of the lives of LGBTQI community and immovable negative perceptions the general public have to them and seeks to expose their world and the kinds of violence and abuse they are subjected to as well as unveiling the racial discrimination within these communities The book revolves around five themes education emancipation protection acceptance and integration of those who identify as LGBTQI people in society Academic Development and its Practitioners Gert Young,2022-03-03 The chapters in this collection are reflections of the intellectual emotional and day to day experiences of professional staff engaged in academic development They provide the reader with glimpses of how academic developers at one South African university are continuously shaping their identities through sense making processes how they creatively apply different theoretical approaches to both analysing and informing their work and what their views are of the practical and systemic challenges facing higher education As such this book expands on as well as challenges the dominant ways of thinking about academic development and academic developers in higher education Apologetics in Africa Kevin Muriithi Ndereba,2024-02-01 Divided into four major sections this textbook provides an in depth exploration of the biblical philosophical cultural and practical concerns facing African Christians as they proclaim and defend the gospel in Africa Written by a diverse group of pastors and scholars it provides a much needed interdisciplinary and contextualized approach to apologetics It also seeks to bridge the gap between academic research and ministry practice touching on such topics as hermeneutics biblical criticism church history the nature of evil religious inclusivism Muslim Christian engagement eldership rites domestic violence cults and the digital age Biblically robust contextually relevant ministry oriented and accessible this is a remarkable resource for enriching the life and ministry of Christians in Africa and beyond Medicine Across Borders: Exploration of Grey Zones Susanne Lundin,Rui Liu,Elmi Muller,Anja Smith,2023-11-15 Medicine Across Borders provides an interdisciplinary space to discuss the issue of substandard and falsified medical products Scholars from social and medical sciences collaboratively contribute insight to improving safe medicine access The circulation of medicines and medical products on the informal market is well known Stakeholders including governmental agencies and biotechnic enterprises invest much effort in designing and implementing macrolevel interventions to limit the spread of such products Nevertheless there is a lack of knowledge and understanding of how informal markets function in everyday medicine access and use This applies to professionals within and beyond academia state governments as well as the general public This book takes an international perspective examining the issue of substandard and falsified medical products cross nationally Falsified and poor quality medicines are prevalent in low and middle income countries but this book also includes research from high income countries arguing that they too have vulnerabilities and emphasising the need for vigilance even in well resourced and well regulated regimes Medicine Across Borders Exploration of Grey Zones provides an interdisciplinary space for a depth and diversity of material that spotlights some contemporary themes hindering access to essential medicines and driving the penetration of substandard and falsified medical products The authors are drawn from a range of academic disciplines across the social and medical sciences presenting findings from data collected using an eclectic mix of methods and analysis Surveys ethnography narrative case studies statistical and thematic analysis are all deployed

Justice-based ethics Chris Jones,2018-12-01 The book reflects academically on important and relevant ethical fields from a multidimensional South African context The book challenges conventional borders from different ethical theological philosophical economic and cultural perspectives with insight and expertise and seeks to add academic ethical value locally and globally with its different points of departure deeply embedded in justice From a mainly qualitative methodological perspective this scholarly book demonstrates that ethics requires analytical thinking and critical people who in an existentially and emancipatory way can help make the world a more just decent and humane place in which to live The authors who represent different academic and cultural backgrounds present in their respective chapters their research systematically intersectionally and constructivistically based on profound theoretical analysis and reasoning This epistemology results in an act of knowing that actively gives meaning and order to the reality to which it is responding By doing this they point out that people are in an ongoing process of becoming more human allowing ourselves and our fellow human beings to flourish and to reach fuller potential through justice based ethical reflection and action

Publishing Research in English as an Additional Language Margaret Cargill,Sally Burgess,2017-07-13 Many universities worldwide now require established and novice scholars as well as PhD students to publish in English in international journals This growing trend gives rise to multiple interrelated questions which this volume seeks to address through the perspectives of a group of researchers and practitioners who met in Coimbra Portugal in 2015 for the PRISEAL and MET conferences The volume offers truly global coverage with chapters focusing on vastly different geo social areas and disciplines from the humanities to the hard sciences It will be of interest to applied linguists particularly those working in the area of English for Research Publication Purposes and to language professionals working in research writing support research supervision and academic publishing as well as to journal editors and managers

Language and Institutional Identity in the Post-Apartheid South African Higher Education Leketi Makalela,2022-03-21 This book examines the intersections between education identity formation and language in post apartheid South Africa with specific attention to higher education It does so against the backdrop of the core argument that the sector plays a critical role in shaping re producing and perpetuating sectoral class sub national and national identities which in turn in the peculiar South African setting are almost invariably analogous with the historical fault lines determined and dictated by language as a marker of ethnic and racial identity The chapters in the book grapple with the nuances related to these intersections in the understanding that higher education language policies overt and or covert largely structure institutional cultures or what has been described as curriculum in higher education institutions Together the chapters examine the roles played by higher education by language policies and by the intersections of these policies and ethnolinguistic identities in either constructing and perpetuating or deconstructing ethnolinguistic identities upon which the sector was founded The introductory chapter lays out the background to the entire book with an emphasis on the policy and practice perspectives on the intersections The middle chapters describe the so called White Universities Black Universities and Middle Man Minorities Universities The final chapter maps out future directions of the discourses on language and identity formation in South Africa s higher education
