Principles of Appreciative Inquiry

EMERGENT

Words create worlds and shape our perception, knowledge, & understanding of the world around us.

The questions we ask are fateful and ignite change the moment the question is asked.

New and inspiring images of what we want stimulate us to make small changes that align with our preferred future.

All situations have an infinite number of things we can explore and what we choose to focus on makes a difference.

Emotions influence what we do or think in a situation. Positive emotions invite positive questions that result in positive change.

Inclusivity builds collective capacity by pooling our collective knowledge & expertise in generating new opportunities.

Embodying the change we wish to see helps create a living model or prototype of our ideal future.

Stories are transformative; we live into the narratives we construct and tell ourselves.

People are more committed to positive change when they have the freedom to choose how and what they contribute.

Building awareness around underlying biases and assumptions help to cultivate deeper conversations & relationships.
