Land-Use Management to Support Sustainable Settlements in South Africa

Verna Nel, Stuart Paul Denoon-Stevens, 2023-10-24 This book provides a theoretical and practical foundation needed to change the practice of land use management in Southern Africa. It presents an overview of alternative land use management system for South African municipalities that is economically, socially and environmentally more sustainable than many of the land use schemes in effect at present. Land use management is a component of spatial governance that controls the nature and extent of development to prevent harmful impacts on people and the environment. As the current system with its colonial modernist planning and regulatory mechanisms were never designed to deal with rapid change, urbanisation and informality, a different form of land development and land use management is necessary. This timely book reflects the culmination of many years of practical experience and research into various aspects of land use management by the authors and studies undertaken by their master's and doctoral students. The book goes beyond an analysis of the problems and suggests concrete proposals that can be applied throughout Southern Africa based on a rural to urban transect. This book is directed to a broad range of readers interested in spatial planning and land use management. It will be of interest to those in the fields of geography, urban studies, urban design, planning and architecture.

African Philosophy and Environmental Conservation

Jonathan Chimakonam, 2017-10-04 African Philosophy and Environmental Conservation is about the unconcern for and marginalisation of the environment in African philosophy. The issue of the environment is still very much neglected by governments, corporate bodies, academics and specifically philosophers in the sub-Saharan Africa. The entrenched traditional world views which give a place of privilege to one thing over the other, as for example men over women, is the same attitude that privileges humans over the environment. This culturally embedded orientation makes it difficult for stakeholders in Africa to identify and confront the modern day challenges posed by the neglect of the environment. In a continent where deep rooted cultural and religious practices as well as widespread ignorance determine human conduct towards the environment, it becomes difficult to curtail much less overcome the threats to our environment. It shows that to a large extent the African cultural privileging of men over women and of humans over the environment somewhat exacerbates and makes the environmental crisis on the continent intractable. For example, it raises the challenging puzzle as to why women in Africa are the ones to plant the trees and men are the ones to fell them. Contributors address these salient issues from both theoretical and practical perspectives, demonstrating what African philosophy could do to ameliorate the marginalisation which the theme of environment suffers on the continent. Philosophy is supposed to teach us how to lead the good life in all its forms; why is it failing in this duty in Africa specifically where the issue of environment is concerned? This book, which trail-blazes the field of African Philosophy and Environmental Ethics, will be of great interest to students and scholars of Philosophy, African philosophy, Environmental Ethics and Gender Studies.

Universities, Employability and Human Development Melanie

Walker, Samuel Fongwa, 2017-01-20 The book makes a significant contribution to critical higher education studies specifically to graduate employability research and to capabilities and education research The book moves beyond the simplistic conception of alleged gaps in graduate skills and mismatches between employers and universities and instead provides an innovative multi dimensional and intersectional human capabilities conceptualisation of graduate employability The book challenges an individualised notion of employability instead locating employability issues in social and economic conditions and argues that employability choices cannot be divorced from inequality Qualitative and quantitative data from multiple case study universities in South Africa are used to explore the perceptions and experiences of diverse students lecturers support officers and employers regarding what each university is doing or should be doing to enhance graduate economic opportunities and contribute to inclusive development The book will be highly relevant to students scholars and researchers in the fields of education and sociology particularly those with an interest in graduate employability

Dress in the Making of African Identity: A Social and Cultural History of the Yoruba People Bukola Adeyemi Oyeniyi, 2015-09-08 This is a book on the social and cultural history of Yoruba people a people in southwest Nigeria As the first to provide a comprehensive treatment of Yoruba dress in historical perspective this book is an important contribution to African history in general and the Yoruba cultural history in particular The book illuminates the impact of Christianity Islam and British colonialism on the construction of Yoruba identity and how dress was entangled in that construction It also provides insightful discussions of the transformations in dress culture since independence and demonstrates the importance of dress as a site for contesting and articulating postcolonial Yoruba identity and class structure within the Nigerian national space This book provides many insights into these issues and is thus an invaluable addition to Africana studies anthropology and history

Democratising Participatory Research Carmen Martinez-Vargas, 2022-01-20 In this book Carmen Martinez Vargas explores how academic participatory research and the way it is carried out can contribute to more or less social justice Adopting theoretical and empirical approaches and addressing multiple complex intersectional issues this book offers inspiration for scholars and practitioners to open up alternative pathways to social justice viewed through a Global South lens Martinez Vargas examines the colonial roots of research and emphasises the importance of problematising current practices and limitations in order to establish more just and democratic participatory research practices Although practitioners have been challenging the Western roots of research and participatory research for decades their goals can be compromised by pluralities and contradictions in the field This book aims not to replicate past participatory research approaches but to offer an innovative theoretical foundation the Capabilities Approach and an innovative participatory practice called Democratic Capabilities Research Democratising Participatory Research is not only timely and relevant in South Africa but also in the Global North owing to the current crisis of values jeopardising the peaceful existence of diverse societies The book gives essential recommendations for capabilities and human development scholars to reframe their perspectives and uses of the Capabilities Approach as well as for participatory practitioners to critically reflect on their practices and their often limited conceptualisation of participation
