ever larger global material flows In doing so it has come to depend on massive expenditures of energy putting to work fossil fuels and the machines they animate to transform the world accumulate power and grow the economy The ecological relations and crises of today s societies are driven by the processes of extraction of the elements that come together as a throughput of material and energy flows controlled by capital and shaped by its imperative of valorization In A Social Ecology of Capital ric Pineault proposes an original model of the fossil social metabolism that has sustained the growth of advanced capitalism in the last century Drawing on ecological economics and critical political economy the book analyses how the social structures of accumulation production consumption and waste determine and regulate the material flow and the accumulation of material artifacts Showing how social relations shape the ecology of capital the book highlights the contradictions humanity now faces

Other Rivers Peter Hessler, 2024-08-29 Memorable One of China s most astute and sensitive foreign observers Financial Times Compassionate full of warmth Guardian More than twenty years after teaching English to China s first boom generation at a small college in Sichuan Province Peter Hessler returned to teach the next generation At the same time Hessler s twin daughters became the only Westerners in a student body of about two thousand in their local primary school Through reconnecting with his previous students now in their forties members of China s Reform generation and teaching his current undergraduates Hessler is able to tell an intimately unique story about China s incredible transformation over the past quarter century In the late 1990s almost all of Hessler s students were the first of their families to enrol in higher education sons and daughters of subsistence farmers who could offer little guidance as their children entered a brand new world By 2019 when Hessler arrived at Sichuan University he found a very different China and a new kind of student an only child whose schooling was the object of intense focus from a much more ambitious and sophisticated cohort of parents Hessler s new students have a sense of irony about the regime but mostly navigate its restrictions with equanimity and embrace the astonishing new opportunities China s boom affords But the pressures of this system of extreme meritocracy at scale can be gruesome even for much younger children including his own daughters who give him a first hand view of raising a child in China In Peter Hessler s hands China s education system is the perfect vehicle for examining what s happened to the country where it s going and what we can learn from it At a time when relations between the UK and China fracture Other Rivers is a tremendous indeed an essential gift a work of enormous human empathy that rejects cheap stereotypes and shows us China from the inside out and the bottom up using as a measuring stick this most universally relatable set of experiences As both a window onto China and a distant mirror onto our own education system Other Rivers is a classic a book of tremendous value and compelling human interest

The Global Development Of Policy Regimes To Combat Climate Change Alex Bowen, Nicholas Stern, John Whalley, 2014-04-01 The year 2015 will be a landmark year for international climate change negotiations Governments have agreed to adopt a universal legal agreement on climate change at the 21st Conference of Parties COP21 to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change UNFCCC in Paris in 2015 The agreement will come into force no later than 2020 This book focuses on the prospects for global agreement how to encourage compliance with any such agreement and perspectives of key players in the negotiations the United States India China and the EU It finds that there is strong commitment to the established UN institutions and processes within which the search for further agreed actions will occur There are already a myriad of local and regional policies that are helping to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and build mutual confidence However the chapters in the book also highlight potential areas of discord For instance varying interpretations of the common but differentiated responsibilities of developing countries agreed as part of the UNFCCC could be a major sticking point for negotiators When combined with other issues such as the choice of consumption or production as the basis for mitigation commitments the appropriate time frame and base date for their measurement and whether level or intensity commitments are to be negotiated the challenges that need to be overcome are considerable The authors bring to bear insights from economics public finance and game theory

Borderless Africa Francis Mangeni, Andrew Mold, 2024-04-18 The African Continental Free Trade Area established in 2018 represented a monumental step forward for Africa in terms of meeting longstanding aspirations for greater economic and political integration But it has nonetheless been met with scepticism in some quarters both within the continent and beyond Borderless Africa makes the case for the AfCFTA in an accessible and compelling way without shying away from technical and academic debates Francis Mangeni and Andrew Mold take us on a journey through the different dimensions and implications of the AfCFTA the largest free trade zone in the world starting with its underlying economic rationale Pointing to the numerous historical examples of successful regional integration they argue that the African continent will need to take on board such lessons as the agreement is implemented They discuss too the more controversial elements of the AfCFTA including the freedom of movement protocol contending that this should not be seen as an optional extra but as an intrinsic part of the accord Also exploring the role of external partners in the construction of an economically stronger more united Africa this fascinating study reveals how the AfCFTA is contributing to sustainable development across the continent

The Wealth of (Some) Nations Zak Cope, 2019-03-20 In this provocative new study Zak Cope makes the case that capitalism is empirically inseparable from imperialism historically and today Using a rigorous political economic framework he lays bare the vast ongoing transfer of wealth from the poorest to the richest countries through the mechanisms of monopoly rent unequal exchange and colonial tribute The result is a polarised international class structure with a relatively rich Global North and an impoverished exploited Global South Cope makes the controversial claim that it is because of these conditions that workers in rich countries benefit from higher incomes and welfare systems with public health education pensions and social security As a result the internationalism of populations in the Global North is weakened and transnational solidarity is compromised The only way forward Cope argues is through a renewed anti imperialist politics rooted in a firm commitment to a radical labour internationalism
