should feel about climate change Between the information gathered by planetary sensors and the simple act of breathing the air new unsettling moods are produced for which we currently lack an adequate language Should we feel grief over the loss of our planet Or is the strange feeling of witnessing mass extinction an indicator that the planet was never ours to begin with Sad Planets explores this relationship between our all too human melancholia and a more impersonal sorrow nestled in the heart of the cosmic elements Spanning a wide range of topics from the history of cosmology to the existential threat of climate change this book is a reckoning with the limits of human existence and comprehension As Pettman and Thacker observe never before have we known so much about the planet and the cosmos and yet never before have we felt so

Cora Buhlert,2017-02-21 When the apocalypse has come and gone life still goes on for the survivors struggling to adapt to the new normal In a drowned world the descendants of surface dwellers remember the cities that were lost the inhabitants of ocean floor colonies cling to outmoded customs and scavengers search the flooded ruins for anything that might be of use In a world ravaged by droughts two college students come face to face with how the other half lives A lone explorer traverses the icy wasteland that used to be Europe A group of children travels across a zombie infested America in search of shelter and safety After a robot uprising a police officer is assigned to clean up duties and finds an unexpected miracle among the ruins And in a world blasted by electromagnetic solar storms a nineteenth century technology suddenly becomes the sole means of long distance communication This collection contains eight stories of life after the apocalypse of 24500 words or approximately 85 print pages altogether      Our Cosmic Future Nikos Prantzos,2000-04-13 Shall we return to the Moon

Teir,2018-07-12 The light greenery of the early summer is trembling around Erik and Julia as they shove their children into the car and start the drive towards the house by the sea on the west coast of Finland where they will spend the summer From the outside they are a happy young family looking forward to a long holiday together But look under the surface and their happiness shows signs of not lasting the summer On the eve of the holiday Erik lost his job but hasn t yet told the family And the arrival of Julia's childhood friend Marika along with her charismatic husband Chris the leader of a group of environmental activists that have given up hope for planet Earth and are returning to a primitive lifestyle deepens the hairline cracks that had so far remained invisible Around these people over the course of one summer Philip Teir weaves a finely tuned story about life choices and lies about childhood and adulthood How do we live if we know that the world is about to end
