Adapting to Online and Blended Learning in Higher Education David Kember, Robert A. Ellis, Si Fan, Allison Trimble, 2023-05-19 Higher education has undergone a massive transformation in teaching and learning in a very short period of time since the onset of Covid 19 Students teachers and universities have had to adopt online and blended learning often with little or no experience or models of good practice to draw upon It is clear that blended and online learning are here to stay This book draws on research from universities that have adopted online and blended learning to facilitate the expansion and diversification of their intake which resulted in considerable experience and expertise in online and blended teaching The book describes a model tested with qualitative and quantitative data which shows how teachers can support the retention and success of online and blended learners with four high quality pedagogical elements bite sized videos of interest and relevance learning materials that are well organised and provide a clear learning roadmap discussion forums which are set up and moderated so as to result in lively student student and student teacher interaction and online teachers being approachable and responsive to communication with individual students through email phone and online communication platforms This model is explained and profusely illustrated with examples from the teaching of award winning teachers This book introduces the concept of a spectrum from traditional to contemporary models of admission and course delivery in higher education It explains how universities which have adopted a contemporary model with high levels of blended and online learning have been able to expand their intake and markedly diversify the student body It discusses how to support the retention and success of online and blended learners Student support services are examined from the perspectives of service providers and online and blended learners and the case is made for support services being aligned with student needs The book has a discussion of university management systems which utilise feedback at all levels to improve alignment between support service provision and student needs

Education Reform: The Unwinding of Intelligence and Creativity Des Griffin, 2013-12-19 This book pays special attention to the impact that a student's early childhood and socioeconomic status has on his or her educational achievement It argues that discussions of education reform need a broader scope one that encompasses a student's background as well as standardized testing merit pay for teachers and other issues regarding the quality of the teaching and learning Education Reform the Unwinding of Intelligence and Creativity features cases and examples from schools in Australia the USA and Britain It offers a breadth of coverage from early childhood to effective teaching and learning to teacher pay and conditions standardized testing and public and private independent schooling and universities as well as creativity It also includes summaries of educational policies in many developed countries Reforms which emphasize concern for early childhood school leadership and respect for teachers are contrasted with ones based on standardized tests private schools and sacking bad teachers

A Dingo Ate My Math Book Burkard Polster, Marty Ross, 2017-12-27 A Dingo Ate My Math Book presents ingenious unusual and beautiful nuggets of mathematics with a distinctly Australian flavor It focuses for example on Australians love of sports and gambling and on Melbourne s iconic mathematically inspired architecture Written in a playful and humorous style the book offers mathematical entertainment as well as a glimpse of Australian culture for the mathematically curious of all ages This collection of engaging stories was extracted from the Maths Masters column that ran from 2007 to 2014 in Australia s Age newspaper The maths masters in question are Burkard Polster and Marty Ross two immigrant Aussie mathematicians who each week would write about math in the news providing a new look at old favorites mathematical history quirks of school mathematics whatever took their fancy All articles were written for a very general audience with the intention of being as inviting as possible and assuming a minimum of mathematical background Transition and Continuity in School Literacy Development Pauline Jones, Erika Matruglio, Christine Edwards-Groves, 2023-06-29 This book addresses a significant gap in the research literature on transitions across the school years the continuities and discontinuities in school literacy education and their implications for practice Across different curriculum domains and using social semiotic ethnographic and conversation analytic approaches the contributors investigate key transition points for individual students literacy development elements of literacy knowledge that are at stake at each of these points and variability in students experiences Grounding its discussion in classroom voices experiences and texts this book reveals literacy specific curriculum demands and considers how teachers and students experience and account for these evolving demands The contributors include a number of established names such as Freebody Derewianka Myhill Rowsell Moje and Lefstein as well as emerging scholars gaining increasing recognition in the field They draw out implications for how literacy development is theorized in school curriculum and practice teacher education further research and policy formation In addition each section of the book features a summary from an international scholar who draws together key ideas from the section and relates these to their current thinking They deploy a range of different theoretical and methodological approaches in order to bring rich yet complementary perspectives to bear on the issue of literacy transition Diversity in Mathematics Education Alan Bishop, Hazel Tan, Tasos N Barkatsas, 2014-09-20 This book presents a research focus on diversity and inclusivity in mathematics education The challenge of diversity largely in terms of student profiles or contextual features is endemic in mathematics education and is often argued to require differentiation as a response Typically different curricula text materials task structures or pedagogies are favoured responses but huge differences in achievement still result If we in mathematics education seek to challenge that status quo more research must be focussed not just on diversity but also on the inclusivity of practices in mathematics education The book is written by a group of experienced collaborating researchers who share this focus It is written for researchers research students teachers and in service professionals who recognise both the challenges

but also the opportunities of creating and evaluating new inclusive approaches to curriculum and pedagogy ones that take for granted the positive values of diversity Several chapters report new research in this direction The authors are part of or have visited with the mathematics education staff of the Faculty of Education at Monash University in Melbourne Australia The chapters all focus on the ideas of development in both research and practice recognising that the current need is for new inclusive approaches The studies presented are set in different contexts including Australia China the United States and Singapore

Understanding Reading Comprehension Wayne Tennent, 2025-11-29 Drawing from educational and psychological research this heavily revised second edition offers a detailed analysis of how reading comprehension happens combined with practical teaching strategies for the primary classroom
