

QUESTIONS EXAM 2 Answer Key

Q171) Answer the question.

An electric field is the region of space surrounding a charged object, in which any other charged object will experience a force.

Q172) Answer the question.

An atom, the smallest unit of a matter, is made up of

Three basic particles are the constituents of atoms, namely, electrons, protons and neutrons.

The negatively charged electron is present in every atom, whereas positively charged protons and neutrons are present.

The positively charged or uncharged neutrons are present in the nucleus of the atom, and electrons are present outside the nucleus.

An electric charge is a physical property that causes objects to attract or repel each other. It is a scalar quantity, which means it has only magnitude and no direction.

Q173) Answer the question.

An atom is made up of three parts: a central nucleus containing protons and neutrons, and a surrounding electron cloud.

Electrons are negatively charged particles that surround the nucleus. They are held in place by the attractive force of the positively charged protons in the nucleus.

Neutrons are neutral particles that are also found in the nucleus. They are held in place by the strong nuclear force, which is a very powerful force that acts between nucleons. The overall structure of an atom is determined by the balance of these forces.

Q174) Answer the question.
