Manual of Standard Operating Procedures for Selected Chemical Residue and Contaminant Analysis Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, International Atomic Energy Agency, 2021-09-15

Food safety is an important global public health and trade matter with chemical hazards occupying centre stage due to associated acute and chronic health outcomes There is also an increasing need to address antimicrobial resistance concerns While food remains a major vehicle for exposure to these hazards related matrices cannot be ignored Animal feed for instance may contain drug or pesticide residues as well as mycotoxins that could carry over to food either as parent compounds or their metabolites of toxicological relevance Contaminated water is also another medium of potential exposure to food hazards A concerted effort is required to address the need for a safe food supply and one critical stakeholder is the testing laboratory While this requires trained and capable analysts as well as reliable instrumentation analytical methods are a major need Development and validation to ensure fitness of purpose and availability of these methods is a necessity This manual consisting of several Standard Operating Procedures SOPs presents another opportunity for laboratories to address gaps in analytical methods and or expand their options The manual contains techniques for analyzing certain mycotoxins such as aflatoxins fumonisin and ochratoxin in matrices that include milk edible vegetable oil and animal feed etc A range of veterinary drug residues including permitted and prohibited substances in animal matrices including fish are also addressed Several pesticide residues in cereals fruits and vegetables are also covered A couple of methods for analysis of selected metals are also presented

Raptor Research and Management Techniques Keith L. Bildstein, David Michael Bird, 2007 Think about how we know about past events in human history e g the expansion of the Roman Empire or the American Revolution What types of records document those events Now think about Earth s history specifically the past environmental or climatic conditions at times before recorded human history What records might there be of such conditions Make a list of your ideas n assemblage of five major types of natural archives of Earth s environmental and climatic history What common feature s do each of these paleoclimate archives share an assemblage of 5 major types of natural records or archives of Earth s environmental and climatic history Just like a diary or other historical document the layers in these natural archives contain indirect evidence i e proxies about past conditions and events recorded in a sequential order The evidence is specific to a certain time period and may be general or very detailed depending on the rate that information was recorded The faster the rate at which the recorder grew trees and corals accumulated snow and ice or was deposited sedimentary sequences the more detailed the record is and the higher its resolution For example a record in which an annual signal can observed has a very high resolution In contrast if the finest observable details are on the order of a million years then that record would have a low resolution
