Analysing Architecture, 2009 Shadow Simon

Unwin, 2020-02-18 Each of these Analysing Architecture Notebooks is devoted to a particular theme in understanding the rich and varied workings of architecture They can be thought of as addenda to the foundation volume Analysing Architecture which first appeared in 1997 and has subsequently been enlarged in three further editions Examining these extra themes as a series of Notebooks rather than as additional chapters in future editions allows greater space for more detailed exploration of a wider variety of examples whilst avoiding the risk of the original book becoming unwieldy Shadows may be insubstantial but they are nevertheless an important element in architecture In prehistoric times we sought shade as a refuge from the hot sun and chilling rain Through history architects have used shadows to draw to mould form to paint pictures to orchestrate atmosphere to indicate the passing of time as well as to identify place Sometimes shadow can be the substance of architecture

Curve Simon Unwin, 2019-04-03 Each of these Analysing Architecture Notebooks is devoted to a particular theme in understanding the rich and varied workings of architecture They can be thought of as addenda to the foundation volume Analysing Architecture which first appeared in 1997 and has subsequently been enlarged in three further editions Examining these extra themes as a series of Notebooks rather than as additional chapters in future editions allows greater space for more detailed exploration of a wider variety of examples whilst avoiding the risk of the original book becoming unwieldy Curve is a divisive issue in architecture Some see curves as expensive and decadent others as an expression of transcendence a way that the human mind can express its freedom from quotidian constraints Yet others use curves to emulate some of the most beautiful forms in nature This Notebook considers the various authorities to which architects look for the generation of their curves It also considers the aspirations curves manifest in architectural form

What Student Architects Should Do Simon Unwin, 2025-06-02 As a first year student the challenges of learning how to do architecture can be daunting Though not prescribing a particular way there are as many ways to do architecture as there are architects this Notebook outlines what you should do to cultivate your own distinctive capacity for architectural design Architecture is a rich and varied subject a multifaceted and multidimensional skill Learning to do it is not easy It has many subtleties Becoming fluent can take many years Informed by decades of discussing architecture and its challenges with students this Notebook will help you lay foundations for a rewarding career as a creative architect All Simon Unwin s books explore architecture not just as a matter of form and space but in terms of its primal driving force the universal need and desire to make places for life Each of these Analysing Architecture Notebooks is devoted to a particular theme in understanding the rich and varied workings of architecture They can be thought of as addenda to the foundation volume Analysing Architecture the Universal Language of Place Making which first appeared in 1997 and has subsequently been enlarged in four further editions Examining these extra themes as a series of Notebooks rather than as additional chapters in future editions allows greater space for more detailed exploration of a wider variety of examples whilst avoiding the risk of the original book becoming unwieldy An Architecture Notebook Simon Unwin,2000 A companion volume to the author s successful text Analysing Architecture this book follows the same approach and format to explore conceptual themes in architecture further

Twenty-five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand Simon Unwin,2015 Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is an essential companion to Simon Unwin s Analysing Architecture and part of the trilogy which also includes his Exercises in Architecture Learning to Think as an Architect Together the three books offer an introduction to the workings of architecture providing for the three aspects of learning theory examples and practice Twenty Five Buildings focusses on analysing examples using the methodology offered by Analysing Architecture which operates primarily through the medium of drawing In this second edition five further buildings have been added to the original twenty from an even wider geographical area which now includes the USA France Italy Mexico Switzerland Spain Finland Germany Australia Norway Sweden India and Japan The underlying theme of Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is the relationship of architecture to the human being how it frames our lives and orchestrates our experiences how it can help us make sense of the world and contribute to our senses of identity and place Exploring these dimensions through a wide range of case studies that illustrate the rich diversity of twentieth and twenty first century architecture this book is essential reading for every architect Lloc web de l editor Twenty Buildings Every Architect Should Understand Simon Unwin,2010-02-25 Have you ever wondered how the ideas behind the world s greatest architectural designs came about What process does an architect go through to design buildings which become world renowned for their excellence This book reveals the secrets behind these buildings He asks you to read the building and understand its starting point by analyzing its final form Through the gradual revelations made by an understanding of the thinking behind the form you learn a unique methodology which can be used every time you look at any building Children As Place-Makers Simon Unwin,2019 Each of these Analysing Architecture Notebooks is devoted to a particular theme in understanding the rich and varied workings of architecture. They can be thought of as addenda to the foundation volume Analysing Architecture which first appeared in 1997 and has subsequently been enlarged in three further editions. Examining these extra themes as a series of Notebooks rather than as additional chapters in future editions allows greater space for more detailed exploration of a wider variety of examples whilst avoiding the risk of the original book becoming unwieldy. As children we make places spontaneously on the beach in woodland around our homes. Those places are evidence of a natural language of architecture we all share. Beginning with the child as seed and agent of the places it makes, initial sections of Children as Place makers illustrate the key verbs that drive that natural language of architecture. Later sections look at the core importance of the circle of place how as children we are drawn to inhabit boxes and the narrative possibilities that arise when place is linked with imagination. The principal messages of this Notebook are that it is by place making we make sense of the space of the world in which we live and that the first step in becoming a professional architect is to re-awaken the innate architect inside each of us. Twenty Buildings Every Architect Should Understand Simon Unwin, 2010-02-25

Have you ever wondered how the ideas behind the world's greatest architectural designs came about? What process does an architect go through to design buildings which become world renowned for their excellence? This book reveals the secrets behind these buildings. He asks you to read the building and understand its starting point by analyzing its final form. Through the gradual revelations made by an understanding of the thinking behind the form you learn a unique methodology which can be used every time you look at any building. Twenty Buildings Every Architect Should Understand Simon Unwin, 2010

Analysing buildings from throughout the 20th century and across the globe including the US, France, Italy, Mexico, Switzerland, Spain, Finland, Australia, Norway, Sweden and Japan, this book reveals the secrets behind the world's greatest architectural designs. Interpreting Site Genevieve Baudoin, 2015-04-17

Interpreting Site explains the basic methods architects use to translate what you perceive to represent the complex conditions that physically and mentally construe a site, helping to shape the ultimate design. Within each of the four themes—defining site, experiencing site, spatializing site, and systematizing site—theoretical, conceptual, and analytic methods and representational tools are introduced to give you a foundation to develop your own approach to the conditions of a site. Author Genevieve S. Baudoin examines longstanding representation methods in relation to emerging and experimental methods, offering an idiosyncratic and provocative look at different approaches. Four highly illustrated full-colour case studies of key contemporary projects in Spain, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Norway demonstrate how architects have used conditions discovered on a site in their final design
