Vincenzi, Katherine Lemos, Shawn Pruchnicki, 2025-09-16 Developing training and simulation is a complex business From understanding human performance design usability and the limitations of training types to considerations with virtual reality VR producing realistic scenarios and even helping accident investigations leaves the practitioner with almost an overwhelming challenge However they know that their goal is to cut out developing methods that can train and test the sharp end professional to be ready for any eventuality whether in the air a chemical plant or the operating room Through chapters written by leading experts this book aims to address the key questions and concerns when developing training and simulation in high risk industries This book identifies unexplored challenges and weaknesses in the aviation domain including ground based training and flight simulation compared to the real world of in flight complex aircraft operations aviation accidents and incidents airspace and air traffic control aeronautical communications air navigation aircraft automation and pilot certification and testing These concerns are not just relevant to aviation however This book pushes beyond aviation to include other fields including petrochemical and medicine that while on the surface are different include some of the same human and organizational challenges It integrates machine challenges with human factors science and includes a view of the corporate influences on training Safety is a consideration in all the challenges and current limitations in training and simulation and the book is written with the intention of improving both training and safety as industries deal with more and more complex advanced technology Underpinned by case studies and real life examples this book will give the reader a thorough overview of the limitations of current training methods but with a view to improving and developing better methods for future training scenarios Opportunities and solutions are presented for current or future research and the application and incorporation of these in day day operations Training and Simulation Processes Challenges and Solutions will appeal to practitioners of human factors training pilots and ground operators engineers involved in systems design safety specialists test evaluators and accident investigators across multiple domains Flying in the Face of Criminalization Sofia Michaelides-Mateou, Andreas Mateou, 2016-04-15 Two parallel investigations take place after every aviation accident one technical one judicial The former must be conducted with the sole intention of making safety recommendations to prevent the recurrence of similar accidents The judicial investigation however has the intention of identifying those parties that have been at fault and to apportion blameworthiness for criminal and civil liability Consequently this results in a predicament for those parties that have been identified as having played a role in the accident a dilemma between not supplying information aimed at enhancing safety and preventing future accidents and on the other hand supplying such information which may possibly be used against them in subsequent criminal prosecution The situation is compounded by inconsistent approaches between different legal systems aviation professionals may find themselves faced with criminal charges in one country but not in another and they may also be unsure as to whether statements given during the technical investigation could be used against them in a court of law Aviation safety is to a large extent built upon the trust placed by pilots ATCOs and other aviation professionals in the process of accident investigation This book examines the growing trend to criminalize these same people following an accident investigation and considers the implications this has for aviation safety Europa Year Book 1991 32nd 1991,1991
