

Fossil Patterns Show the Order of Flood Deposits

Because there is a clear order in the rock layers, we can look closely at the fossils contained in each of these layers to get clues about why the creatures were deposited in this particular sequence. We find a definite sequence of fossils (Figure 4) that show evidence of waters rising and progressively burying different ecological zones. We also see patterns of fossilized tracks in rock layers lower than we find the actual fossilized creature (Figures 5-6).

VERTEBRATE TRACKWAYS BELOW VERTEBRATE FOSSILS (FIGURE 6)

Reptile footprints (right) are found much lower than the fossilized bodies of reptiles in the Grand Canyon. This strange pattern is easy to explain if the reptiles were scrambling to safety with each incoming deposit, until they died in exhaustion.

Trilobite footprints (bottom right) are consistently found lower than the fossilized bodies of trilobites (upper right). This pattern makes sense if these shallow marine invertebrates were scrambling to safety with each incoming deposit of mud, until they died in exhaustion.

This table identifies the types of fossils found in each rock layer.

The fossils in bold text represent the first appearance of that type of fossil.

Controversy of the Ages Theodore Cabal, Peter Rasor, II, 2018-08-08 Controversy of the Ages carefully analyzes the debate by giving it perspective Rather than offering arguments for or against a particular viewpoint on the age of the earth the authors take a step back in order to put the debate in historical and theological context The authors of this book demonstrate from the history of theology and science controversy that believers are entitled to differ over this issue while still taking a stand against theistic evolution But by carefully and constructively breaking down the controversy bit by bit they show why the age issue is the wrong place to draw a line in the sand

John Doyle, 2018-09-01 This book is a critical examination of the philosophical and moral issues in relation to human enhancement and the various related medical developments that are now rapidly moving from the laboratory into the clinical realm In the book the author critically examines technologies such as genetic engineering neural implants pharmacologic enhancement and cryonic suspension from transhumanist and bioconservative positions focusing primarily on moral issues and what it means to be a human in a setting where technological interventions sometimes impact strongly on our humanity The author also introduces the notion that death is a process rather than an event as well as identifies philosophical and clinical limitations in the contemporary determination of brain death as a precursor to organ procurement for transplantation The discussion on what exactly it means to be dead is later applied to explore philosophical and clinical issues germane to the cryonics movement Written by a physician scientist and heavily referenced to the peer reviewed medical and scientific literature the book is aimed at advanced students and academics but should be readable by any intelligent reader willing to carry out some side reading No prior knowledge of moral philosophy is assumed as the various key approaches to moral philosophy are outlined early in the book

The Transition, Initiated by Copernicus and Galileo, from Religion to Science Lawrence Wood, 2017-07-06 Have you ever wondered Why two diametrically opposite explanations of ourselves Religion and Science coexist As this book explains the reason is one explanation began before the other The first explanations development began thousands of years ago when our gradually evolving brains and minds awoke to an unknown possibly threatening environment Unfortunately attempts to explain this strange environment were frustrated by illusions such as the apparent motion of the sun moon and stars around the earth which clouded our limited observational capability such as our inability detect constant motion thwarting the developing human minds ability to correctly explain observations These limitations ultimately led to a totally incorrect explanation we reside in a very small young unchanging universe revolving about us created by a supernatural being God a belief system termed Religion About 500 years ago the formulation of the second explanation was initiated when astute investigators such as Copernicus and Galileo using improved new observation instruments such as the telescope and microscope began to realize the existing illusion based religious explanations could not possibly be correct Author Lawrence Wood introduces the brilliant investigators who resolved the illusions by developing radically new explanations of the illusions an explanation system termed Science many still cannot accept hence the coexistence of religion and science If you are one of those trying to bridge the gulf between your religious beliefs which have become increasingly difficult to accept and the strange new world of science this book will help you immeasurably
