The American Revolution: A Fight for Freedom

Name: _____

Directions: Read the passage and answer the questions.

The American Revolution was a struggle over the right to self-governance that took place between 1775 and 1783. It was the struggle of thirteen American colonies to gain independence from Great Britain. Over the course of the revolution, the colonies fought to break free from British rule and form their own nation, which became the United States of America. This revolution changed the way people thought about government and freedom and its effects can still be felt today.

The Causes of the American Revolution

The American Revolution didn't happen overnight. It was the result of a long struggle between the colonies and Great Britain. One of the main causes was the issue of taxation. The British government wanted the colonies to pay for the costs of running the empire, but the colonies felt that they should have a say in how they were taxed. This led to a series of protests and rebellions, including the Boston Tea Party. The British government responded with harsh measures, which only made the colonies more determined to fight for their rights.
