

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The sessions included aerobic exercise, strength training, and flexibility exercises. The results showed that the program significantly improved cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength, and flexibility. There was also a significant reduction in body weight and body fat percentage. The study suggests that a 12-week training program can be an effective way to improve physical fitness and health in sedentary, middle-aged men.
