

Probability formula

Probability formulas are used to calculate the probabilities of events

Finding the probability of an event A happening can be calculated using the formula

$$P(A) = \frac{\text{Number of times A occurs}}{\text{Total number of possible outcomes}}$$

$$P(\text{not } A) = 1 - P(A)$$

For mutually exclusive events:  $P(A \text{ or } B) = P(A) + P(B)$

For independent events:  $P(A \text{ and } B) = P(A) \times P(B)$

Disorder and Critical Phenomena Through Basic Probability Models Giambattista Giacomin, 2011-07-16 Understanding the effect of disorder on critical phenomena is a central issue in statistical mechanics In probabilistic terms what happens if we perturb a system exhibiting a phase transition by introducing a random environment The physics community has approached this very broad question by aiming at general criteria that tell whether or not the addition of disorder changes the critical properties of a model some of the predictions are truly striking and mathematically challenging We approach this domain of ideas by focusing on a specific class of models the pinning models for which a series of recent mathematical works has essentially put all the main predictions of the physics community on firm footing in some cases mathematicians have even gone beyond settling a number of controversial issues But the purpose of these notes beyond treating the pinning models in full detail is also to convey the gist or at least the flavor of the overall picture which is in many respects unfamiliar territory for mathematicians
