

Severity of pneumonia

In adults, severity is assessed by clinical judgement guided by mortality risk score (CURB-65 or CURB-65) when calculated:

- low severity – CURB-65 score 0 or CURB-65 score 0 or 1
- moderate severity – CURB-65 score 1 or 2 or CURB-65 score 2
- high severity – CURB-65 score 3 or 4 or CURB-65 score 3 to 5

In children and young people, severity is assessed by clinical judgement.

Prescribing considerations

When choosing an antibiotic(s), take account of:

- the severity assessment (adults), or the severity of symptoms or signs (children and young people); see above
- the risk of complications, for example, a relevant comorbidity (such as severe lung disease or immunosuppression)
- local antimicrobial resistance and surveillance data (such as flu and Mycoplasma pneumoniae infection rates)
- recent antibiotic use
- previous microbiological results, including colonisation with multi-drug resistant bacteria

Give oral antibiotics first line if possible
Review intravenous antibiotics by 48 hours and consider switching to oral antibiotics if possible

September 2019

Pneumonia (community-acquired)

- Offer an antibiotic(s) within 4 hours of establishing a diagnosis
- For children and young people in hospital with severe symptoms or a comorbidity, consider sending a sample (for example, a sputum sample) for microbiological testing

Give advice about:

- possible adverse effects of the antibiotic(s)
- how long symptoms are likely to last
- seeking medical help if symptoms worsen rapidly or significantly, or do not start to improve within 3 days, or the person becomes systemically very unwell

If a respiratory sample has been sent for microbiological testing:

- review the choice of antibiotic(s) when results available, and
- consider changing the antibiotic(s) according to results, using a narrower spectrum antibiotic if appropriate

- Reassess if symptoms do not improve as expected, or worsen rapidly or significantly, taking account of possible non-bacterial causes such as flu
- If symptoms have not improved after antibiotics, send a sample (for example, a sputum sample) for microbiological testing, if not done already

Refer adults to hospital if:

- symptoms or signs suggest a more serious illness such as sepsis, or
- symptoms are not improving as expected with antibiotics

Consider referring adults or seeking specialist advice if they have bacteria resistant to oral antibiotics or they cannot take oral medicines

Consider referring children and young people to hospital or seek specialist paediatric advice on further investigation and management

Antimicrobial Guideline For The Management Of Community

Antimicrobial Guideline For The Management Of Community:

Treatment Guidelines for Antimicrobial Use in Common Syndromes Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2024-05-24 This book promotes rational antimicrobial usage by providing standard treatment protocols for infections such as UTIs respiratory infections and sepsis to combat resistance

Antimicrobial Chemotherapy Roger Finch, Peter Davey, Mark H. Wilcox, William Irving, 2012-01-05 Antimicrobial agents are essential for the treatment of life threatening infections and for managing the burden of minor infections in the community In addition they play a key role in organ and bone marrow transplantation cancer chemotherapy artificial joint and heart valve surgery Unlike other classes of medicines they are vulnerable to resistance from mutations in target microorganisms and their adverse effects may extend to other patients increased risk of cross infection As a consequence there is a constant requirement for new agents as well as practices that ensure the continued effective prescribing of licensed agents Public awareness and concerns about drug resistant organisms has led to widespread publicity and political action in the UK Europe and worldwide The control of drug resistance and the implementation of good prescribing practice are now legal requirements in the UK as a result of the UK Health Act 2008 These fundamental changes underscore the need for a thorough understanding of the advantages and risks associated with specific antibiotic choices This sixth edition of Antimicrobial Chemotherapy continues to be a valuable resource for undergraduates and graduates requiring a thorough grounding in the scientific basis and clinical application of these drugs This new edition is updated to include the most recently licensed agents notably in the treatment of viral infections including HIV AIDS and contains new guidance on prescribing practice and infection control practices that limit the development and spread of resistant organisms

Community-Acquired Pneumonia Antoni Torres, Rosario Menendez, 2008-07-31 Community Acquired Pneumonia CAP refers to pneumonia acquired outside of hospitals or extended care facilities and is distinct from Nosocomial or hospital acquired pneumonia which is a separate disease entity It is one of the most common respiratory infections and presents one of the major health problems today with an incidence that ranges from eight to fifty cases per thousand individuals each year Mortality is still very high and yet the risk factors are very well known Many of these are related to antibiotic treatment delay in administration inadequacy of empiric antibiotics and lack of adherence to guidelines for treatment are all clearly associated with poor treatment outcomes Following a description of the epidemiology and microbial etiology of ambulatory and hospitalized CAP this book provides an in depth review of the important new advances in therapeutics including management of drug resistance to the three major classes of antibiotics used for treatment of CAP lactams macrolides and quinolones All of them have advantages and disadvantages and these are put into perspective This book highlights guideline recommendations and presents a balanced analysis to help physicians deliver the highest standard of care In addition the authors provide an insight into the 10% of patients who do not respond to antibiotics and could benefit from adjunctive therapies some still under review This volume will be welcomed by pulmonologists and all clinicians involved in managing community acquired pneumonia
