Energy and ATP

- Energy coupling = use of exergonic process to drive endergonic process
- ATP = sugar ribose + nitrogenous base adenine + 3 phosphate groups
 - Hydrolysis breaks bonds between phosphate groups
 - Bond is broken → inorganic phosphate leaves → ATP is now ADP
 - This is an exergonic reaction
 - The bonds actually aren't exceptionally high energy, it's just that the ATP molecule has high energy compared to the products (ADP and the inorganic phosphate) so that's why ATP releases so much energy - its chemical state is being changed to a lower energy state
 - All 3 phosphate groups are negatively charged → like charges are crowded together → mutual repulsion → instability → more energy is released through hydrolysis
 - Think of the 3 phosphate groups as a compressed spring
- Cell is able to couple energy of ATP hydrolysis directly to endergonic processes by transferring phosphate group from ATP to some other molecule (which is said to be phosphorylated)
- Three types of cellular work almost always powered by ATP hydrolysis
 - Phosphate group is transferred from ATP to some other molecule → phosphorylated molecule undergoes change that performs work
- ATP is renewable, can be regenerated by adding phosphate to ADP
- Catabolic (exergonic) pathways, e.g. cellular respiration, provide energy for endergonic process of making ATP
- Changing one molecule into another generally involves contorting the starting molecule into a very unstable state before reaction can proceed
 - Reactant molecules absorb energy from their surroundings → reach contorted state where bonds can change → new bonds of product molecules form → energy is released as heat → molecules return to stable shapes with lower energy

Activation Energy

- Activation energy = initial investment of energy for starting a reaction, i.e. energy required to contort the reactant molecules so the bonds can change
 - Reactants reach a transition state, i.e. where reactants are unstable, bonds can break or form
 - Activation energy is simply the energy needed to start the reaction, it doesn't designate whether the reaction is endergonic or exergonic (both have an activation energy)

book synthesizes new field data on the biogeography behavioral ecology circadian biology population biology and demography spanning their entire continental range from Panam to Argentina It includes theoretical perspectives drawn from evolutionary biology biological anthropology anatomy morphology and physiology genetics endocrinology and conservation biology to examine a specic set of adaptations that have allowed owl monkeys to exploit the nocturnal niche while functioning in a pair living sexually monogamous system with remarkable patterns of paternal care The author with 30 years of research experience with both captive and wild primates has directed the longest project on any owl monkey species and has conducted extensive original research on their biology adaptive radiation and behavioral ecology His expertise and published record on both wild populations and laboratory colonies makes this book one of a kind it presents information from both captive and wild primates and explores questions through the integration of both approaches The volume offers some additional features that make it novel in its approach 1 brings together a combination of senior researchers who during four decades have established captive owl monkeys as a system of study with a new generation of younger scientists who have for the last 10 20 years been spearheading their study in the wild 2 presents the work of a remarkably diverse range of authors representing all countries where owl monkeys are present as well as researchers from the U S and Europe and 3 offers synthesis chapters in doing so it will surely become a reference book for those specifically drawn to owl monkeys as well as for those interested in the research topics that are covered
