

The American Civil War

by Frederick Douglass

Frederick Douglass, The American Civil War

The American Civil War lasted from 1861 to 1865 and was the result of a conflict between northern states and southern states. The war was fought over the issue of slavery. The North wanted to end slavery, while the South wanted to keep it. The war was fought between the Union (the North) and the Confederacy (the South). The Union won the war, and slavery was abolished.

In the early 1800s, large farms called plantations were the main source of food for the South. Cotton was the most important crop grown on the plantations. As a result, cotton plantations multiplied throughout the region. Some of the South's best cotton was grown on plantations in the South. The South used a lot of slaves to work on the plantations. Slaves were forced to work long hours and were treated very badly. Some slaves were even killed. The South's economy was based on slavery. Without slaves, the South's economy would have collapsed. The war was fought over the issue of slavery. The North wanted to end slavery, while the South wanted to keep it. The war was fought between the Union (the North) and the Confederacy (the South). The Union won the war, and slavery was abolished.
