Private Independent Schools ,1975 eLearning for Quality Teaching in Higher Education Nan

Yang,2020-04-20 This book explores the impact of eLearning on the quality of teaching in higher education focusing on three main issues university teachers perception of quality teaching their strategies for achieving quality teaching in practice and interventions that design and implement online collaborative activities in a large class The book argues that if eLearning targets the real problems in practice and is appropriately designed and implemented it can improve the teaching quality at universities It also demonstrates the complexity of teachers perception of quality teaching and contextual factors that affect teaching practice and quality Further it explores university teachers perception of quality teaching in Italy the UK and China an aspect that is rarely addressed in the literature and reveals why the impact of ICTs on university teaching is not as great as in other fields by explaining the issues that threaten the quality of day to day teaching Lastly it confirms that traditional lecturing combined with online collaborative activities improves the quality of teaching compared to traditional lecturing alone As such this book is a necessary and important resource for the research community The Education Triple

Cocktail Brahm Fleisch,2018-08-15 The Education Triple Cocktail brings together rigorous quantitative and qualitative research on a new approach to improving foundational teaching and learning for schoolchildren living in working class poor and remote rural communities in resource constrained systems like South Africa At the core of this book is the theory and evidence for a powerful new interlocking and mutually reinforcing change model Inspired by the AIDS treatment story the three pronged approach of structured daily lesson plans appropriate and high quality educational materials and one on one instructional coaching to help teachers transform their instructional practices in early grade classrooms shows that it will improve learning outcomes For education systems defined by low levels of early grade learning and profoundly unequal outcomes The Education Triple Cocktail offers a theoretically informed evidence based way forward This book will be of immense use to teachers students of Education policymakers and parents How to Succeed at School Wendy

Berliner,Judith Judd,2019-11-20 This book shines a light on the best research into learning and the brain development that makes it all possible Written by two distinguished education journalists it provides an invaluable guide to the latest information for teachers and parents seeking to help children to make the best use of their potential and steer a true course through an often confused noisy and crowded learning landscape where ideas compete and nothing can seem clear Summarising the most up to date and significant research in a jargon free and understandable way this book provides readers with simple and clear access to knowledge and information about what really helps children learn and flourish Whether you re a teacher who wants to encourage the right kind of parental support or a parent who wants to do the best for your child this is an essential read Drawing on expert analysis interviews and example studies the chapters tackle common misconceptions and myths and explore crucial topics including The use of neuroscience in education The role of parents and how all parents can help their children learn What works in the classroom and the best ways of teaching a child The first of its kind this seminal text is a unique resource for parents carers primary and secondary teachers student teachers policymakers and anyone interested in the development of children and how they learn Annual Report South Africa. Department of Basic Education,2016 Low-Income Students, Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa Melanie Walker,Monica McLean,2022-07-15 This book explores learning outcomes for low income rural and township youth at five South African universities The book is framed as a contribution to southern and Africa centred scholarship adapting Amartya Sen s capability approach and a framework of key concepts capabilities functionings context conversion factors poverty and agency to investigate opportunities and obstacles to achieved student outcomes This approach allows a reimagining of inclusive learning outcomes to encompass the multi dimensional value of a university education and a plurality of valued cognitive and non cognitive outcomes for students from low income backgrounds whose experiences are strongly shaped by hardship Based on capability theorising and student voices the book proposes for policy and practice a set of contextual higher education capability domains and corresponding functionings orientated to more justice and more equality for each person to have the opportunities to be and to do what they have reason to value The book concludes that sufficient material resources are necessary to get into university and flourish while there the benefits of a university education should be rich and multi dimensional so that they can result in functionings in all areas of life as well as work and future study the inequalities and exclusion of the labour market and pathways to further study must be addressed by wider economic and social policies for inclusive learning outcomes to be meaningful and that universities ought to be doing more to enable black working class students to participate and succeed Low Income Students Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa makes an original contribution to capabilitarian scholarship conceptually in theorising a South based multi dimensional student well being higher education matrix and a rich reconceptualisation of learning outcomes as well as empirically by conducting rigorous longitudinal in depth mixed methods research on students lives and experiences in higher education in South Africa The audience for the book includes higher education researchers international capabilitarian scholars practitioners and policy makers Written Out Joel Cabrita,2023-01-17 Systemic racism and sexism caused one of South Africa s most important writers to disappear from public consciousness Is it possible to justly restore her historical presence Regina Gelana Twala a Black South African woman who died in 1968 in Swaziland now Eswatini was an extraordinarily prolific writer of books columns articles and letters Yet today Twala s name is largely unknown Her literary achievements are forgotten Her books are unpublished Her letters languish in the dusty study of a deceased South African academic Her articles are buried in discontinued publications Joel Cabrita argues that Twala s posthumous obscurity has not developed accidentally as she exposes the ways prejudices around race and gender blocked Black African women like Twala from establishing themselves as successful writers Drawing upon Twala s family papers interviews newspapers and archival records from Pretoria Uppsala and Los Angeles Cabrita argues that an entire cast of characters censorious editors territorial White academics apartheid officials and male African politicians whose politics were at odds with her own conspired to erase Twala's legacy Through her unique documentary output Twala marked herself as a radical voice on issues of gender race and class The literary gatekeepers of the racist and sexist society of twentieth century southern Africa clamped down by literally writing her out of the region's history Written Out also scrutinizes the troubled racial politics of African history as a discipline that has been historically dominated by White academics a situation that many people within the field are now examining critically Inspired by this recent movement Cabrita interrogates what it means for her a White historian based in the Northern Hemisphere to tell the story of a Black African woman Far from a laudable recovery of an important lost figure Cabrita acknowledges that her biography inevitably reproduces old dynamics of White scholarly privilege and dominance Cabrita's narration of Twala's career resurrects it but also reminds us that Twala tragically is still not the author of her own life story

Preparing Teachers to Work with Multilingual Learners Meike Wernicke, Svenja Hammer, Antje Hansen, Tobias Schroedler, 2021-04-15 This collection examines a diverse range of approaches to multilingualism in teacher education programmes across Europe and North America The authors investigate how pre service teachers are being prepared to work in multilingual contexts and discuss the key features of current pre service teacher education initiatives that address the increasing linguistic and cultural diversity evident in classrooms in their respective countries The focus is not only on migrant background learners but includes students from Indigenous autochthonous and heritage language backgrounds and speakers of minoritised regional varieties The chapters contextualise both historically and ideologically the specific initiatives and measures taken in the participating countries They also reveal the complexity of each educational context and the role that history language policies and institutional and programmatic priorities play in the development and implementation of a multilingual focus in teacher education In exploring how pre service teachers are being prepared to work in multilingual contexts the authors take a critical view of how multilingualism itself is conceptualised within and across contexts The book highlights the valuable impact that explicit instruction on theories of multilingualism pedagogies in multilingual classrooms and lived realities of multilingual children can have on the beliefs and practices of pre service teachers
