QWC: to achieve a mark of 6-7 the candidate will use business terminology quite well. The style of writing should be appropriate to the question and spelling should be sound.	Candidate may suggest that to attract staff from competitors the initial salary package should be good but that to retain them, non-financial incentives (e.g. empowerment) may need to be in place. At this level candidates should address both issues and start to realise that different approaches may be needed. Accept that externally recruited staff may be rewarded with different packages - eg; relocation.

For a mark of 8-9 a contextual answer with good use of terminology and toolkit which provides balance is needed. This may be on attracting staff or retaining them. For a mark of 10-12 the above is needed and both issues must be addressed fully. QWC: the candidate will use business terminology precisely and effectively. (S)he will provide a coherent and fluent response with good to excellent spelling.	Candidate may suggest that ultimately the level of financial reward is paramount for most staff but that according to Maslow (for example) the greater motivation may be in the fulfilment achieved. Bearing in mind the managerial nature of the posts reward candidates who look at the degree of responsibility afforded to staff. Accept that suggest external agencies and headhunters may be better placed to bring the type of managerial staff best suited for a period of time.
