Research question:

What is the effect of different concentrations of 1-Naphthaleneacetic acid (0ppm, 10ppm, 50ppm, 100ppm and 200ppm) on the length (in centimeters) of adventitious roots of sweet potato plants (Ipomoea batatas) after three days?

Independent variable: The concentration of 1-Naphthaleneacetic acid in parts per million (ppm)
Dependent variable: Length of adventitious roots measured in centimeters (cm)

Rationale/Scientific context:

1-Naphthaleneacetic acid (NAA) is a synthesized plant hormone (auxin) commonly used in agriculture to promote root growth. The mechanism of NAA's promotion on root growth, in summary, involves the auxin triggering a transcription factor (ARF) which initiates a series of gene inhibitions and expressions, causing pericycle tissue in the root cylinder to re-enter the G1-S stages of the cell cycle and thus lead to cell division. The cellular division of pericycle tissue promotes the formation of adventitious root, a kind of lateral root that didn't initiate underground. Like other plant hormones, auxins are known to have different effects depending on the concentration and target plant tissue(s). By varying the concentration of NAA, the effect of the hormone on the roots can be investigated.

Expected results (hypothesis):

It is expected, in general, that NAA will increase root length (compared to the control) after three days; however, it is also expected there will be diminished root lengthening with higher concentration of NAA due to an inhibitory effect when auxins are in high concentrations.

Women Writers of the First World War: An Annotated Bibliography Sharon Ouditt, 2002-01-22 They also serve who only stand and wait. The idea of there being a women's writing during the First World War is often dismissed. The war, the story goes, was a masculine domain and as women did not fight it is also assumed that they were excluded from a war experience. This bibliography challenges that view by listing and annotating hundreds of published books, articles, memoirs, diaries, and letters written by women during the First World War. Included are Virginia Woolf, Katherine Mansfield, G. B. Stern, Brenda Girvin, known and unknown autobiographers and diarists, writers of pro and anti-war propaganda, journal and magazine articles, literary, cultural, and historical criticism.

Annotated Bibliography Margaret A. Drew, 1994 An Annotated Bibliography in Human Relations James W. Morrison, 1962 Annotated Bibliography for ..., 1979 American Music Librarianship Carol June Bradley, 2013-09-13 The literature of American music librarianship has been around since the 19th century when public libraries began to keep records of player piano concerts, significant donations of books and music, and suggestions for housing music. As the 20th century began, American periodicals printed more and more articles on increasingly specialized topics within music studies. Eventually, books were developed to aid the music librarian; their publication has continued over the course of nearly a century. This book reflects the great diversity of the literature of music librarianship. The main resources included are items of historical interest, descriptions of individual collections, catalogues of collections, articles describing specific library functions, record-related subjects, bibliographies designed for music library use, literature from Canada and Britain when relevant to U.S. library practices, key discographies, and information on specialized music research. The material is ordered by topic and indexed by author, subject, and library name.
