What came to be known as the Black Mountain School of poetry represented, in mid twentieth-century America, the crossroads of poetic innovation. The name of this poetic movement derives from Black Mountain College in North Carolina, an experimental college founded in 1933. By the time the poet and essayist Charles OLSON became its Rector in 1950, it had become a mecca for a larger artistic and intellectual avant-garde. Until it closed in 1957, the college was the seedbed for virtually all of America's later artistic innovations. A vast array of writers, painters, sculptors, dancers, composers and many other people involved in the creative arts passed through the college's doors as teachers or students.

The poets most often associated with the name Black Mountain are, primarily, Olson, Robert Creeley and Robert Duncan.

Today, Black Mountain poetry may seem to contain a great variety of styles and themes. Regardless, there are some common characteristics to be noticed in this poetry: the use of precise language, direct statement, often plain (even blunt) diction, and metonymy rather than metaphor or simile. These writerly tendencies evolved in reaction to earlier poetry that was strictly metered, end-rhymed, filled with aureate diction and monumental subject matter. The reaction by the Black Mountain poets was a continuation of a poetic revolution begun by the Imagists and later the Objectivists. In general, Black Mountain poets typically refrain from commenting on their personal appraisal of a scene evoked in a poem, and this strategy can even mean the avoidance of adjectives and adverbs. As Ezra Pound had pronounced early in the century (in describing the poetry of H.D.), poetry should be "laconic speech," "Objective," without "slither—direct," and containing "No metaphors that won't permit examination.-- It's straight talk." Besides its alignment with Imagism and later Objectivism, Black Mountain poetry can be said to descend, especially in its embrace of individualism, from such nineteenth-century New England writers as Henry David Thoreau and particularly Ralph Waldo Emerson. As Edward Foster has written, Emerson's essay "Self-Reliance" gave the many Black Mountain poets, "despite their radical differences in personality, sensibility, and general ambitions, a common apprehension about what a poem might achieve" (xiii).

U.S. Army War College Judith Hicks Stiehm,2002 We are all familiar with ROTC West Point and other institutions that train young men and women to be military officers But few people know of the U S Army War College where the Army s elite career officers go for advanced training in strategy national security policy and military government policymaking This book takes readers inside the U S Army War College to learn about the faculty staff administration and curriculum Established in 1901 the school s mission has evolved from teaching the skills of war to training officers to negotiate both the complex world of modern strategy and the civilian bureaucracy in Washington More like a professional graduate program than an academic graduate school much of the education takes the form of exercises and simulations Judith Stiehm who holds the U S Army Distinguished Civilian Service Medal allows readers to judge whether the U S Army War College successfully prepares its students for their many roles She is skeptical that instructors can fulfill this difficult task in an era where civilians expect our military to be invincible to win without casualties and to serve as peacekeepers The Military answers to the people of the United States and it is our responsibility to know how it operates at all levels This book is a good place to start

Directory of Research Grants 2008 Schoolhouse Partners Llc,2008-05 It was the 50s and life was simple until September 25 1954 That was the night that would be etched in the memory of the citizens of Stanfield Massachusetts The Chief of Police described the brutal savagery of the double homicide

as the most atrocious crime in the history of the city A fourteen year old girl and the four year old boy in her care were murdered at the hands of a deranged depraved killer A Thread of Evidence places the reader at the scene of the crime an eye witness to the senseless stabbing of two innocent children With a piece of crochet thread as their only clue the entire police department lead by detectives Steven Logan and Raymond Gage scour the city in search of a maniacal savage When all tips and leads have been exhausted they review all evidence They come back to the thread The only real evidence With tenacity and perseverance of Logan and Gage the killer is apprehended The reader experiences the twists and turns of the investigation and ultimately occupies a reserved seat in the Superior Court as the trial proceedings commence A Thread of Evidence has been written as fiction but inspired by an actual event Fifty years later it remains etched in the minds of all who had lived in the area The author has researched court records newspapers interviewed neighbors police and has drawn on personal recollections of the crime The story has been recounted over and over and to this day it continues to be discussed A Thread of Evidence is a compelling account of superb detective work and unprecedented dedication of an entire police department
