Constructing a Chinese School of International Relations Yongjin Zhang,Teng-Chi Chang,2016-06-10 This edited volume offers arguably the first systemic and critical assessment of the debates about and contestations to the construction of a putative Chinese School of IR as sociological realities in the context of China s rapid rise to a global power status Contributors to this volume scrutinize a particular approach to worlding beyond the West as a conscious effort to produce alternative knowledge in an increasingly globalized discipline of IR Collectively they grapple with the pitfalls and implications of such intellectual creativity drawing upon local traditions and concerns knowledge claims and indigenous sources for the global production of knowledge of IR They also consider critically how such assertions of Chinese voices and articulation of their ambition for theoretical innovation from the disciplinary margins contribute to the emergence of a Global IR as a truly inclusive discipline that recognizes its multiple and diverse foundations Reflecting the varied perspectives of both the active participants in the Chinese School of IR debates within China and the observers and critics outside China this work will be of great interest to students and scholars of IR theory Non Western IR and Chinese Studies

Implementing Educational Reform Colleen McLaughlin,Alan Ruby,2021-11-25 A collection and analysis of eight education reform case studies capturing successes failures and choices faced in implementation

China and International Relations Zheng Yongnian,2010-09-13 Despite Beijing s repeated assurance that China s rise will be peaceful the United States Japan and the European Union as well as many of China s Asian neighbours feel uneasy about the rise of China Although China s rise could be seen as inevitable it remains uncertain as to how a politically and economically powerful China will behave and how it will conduct its relations with the outside world One major problem with understanding China s international relations is that western concepts of international relations only partially explain China s approach China s own flourishing indigeneous community of international relations scholars have borrowed many concepts from the west but their application has not been entirely successful so the work of conceptualizing and theorizing China s approach to international relations remains incomplete Written by some of the foremost scholars in the field of China studies this book focuses on the work of Wang Gungwu one of the most influential scholars writing on international relations including topics such as empire nation state nationalism state ideology and the Chinese view of world order Besides honouring Wang Gungwu as a great scholar the book explores how China can be integrated more fully into international relations studies and theories discusses the extent to which existing IR theory succeeds or fails to explain Chinese IR behaviour and demonstrates how the study of Chinese experiences can enrich the IR field

Adversative and Concessive Conjunctions in EFL Writing Yan Zhang, 2020-10-01 This book explores the usage patterns of a group of adversative and concessive conjunctions in English texts written by Chinese EFL learners and their native speaker counterparts Focusing on probability profiles and systemic potentials the study encompasses three stages and combines the strengths of two research methods the corpus based approach and text based analysis to examine the conjunctions under the theoretical framework of systemic functional linguistics and rhetorical structure theory Starting with an overview of seventeen conjunctions across two corpora in terms of overall frequency positional distribution and distribution of semantic categories the book then offers a more detailed discussion of three individual conjunctions highlighting the interconnections between 1 syntactic positions and co occurrence patterns and 2 semantic relations encoded by these conjunctions Lastly it presents a case study of one full length text taken from the learner corpus applying rhetorical structure theory to provide new insights into the relevance of adversative and concessive relations to text structure This comprehensive in depth analysis is both diagnostic and pedagogically informative
