Why Vegan? Peter Singer, 2020-09-24 So the only question is do animals other than man suffer One of the great moral philosophers of the modern age Peter Singer asks unflinching questions about how we should live our lives The ideas collected in these writings arguing that human tyranny over animals is a wrong comparable to racism and sexism triggered the animal rights movement and gave impetus to the rise in vegan eating One of twenty new books in the bestselling Penguin Great Ideas series This new selection showcases a diverse list of thinkers who have helped shape our world today from anarchists to stoics feminists to prophets satirists to Zen Buddhists

Ethics Into Action Peter Singer, 2019-05-17 More than twenty years after its first publication Peter Singer's Ethics into Action continues to inspire new generations of activists through its portrayal of animal rights activist Henry Spira's radical combination of social pressure and tactical ingenuity With a new preface from the author this edition celebrates the continued importance of social movements and provides a path toward furthering changes in our world Hailed by The New Yorker as one of the world's most influential living philosophers Peter Singer is known as a founding father of the modern animal movement In this book he shares the remarkable story of how his friend pushed major corporations to stop inflicting needless suffering on animals He thought of the problem as similar to squeezing toothpaste from a blocked tube Consumer pressure was not going to be enough to have a realistic change of success he also had to think about how to reduce the blockage As people all over the world continue to struggle for justice Spira's method serves as a proven model for effecting change and a positive example that can inspire all those striving for a better world for humans and for animals Book jacket

The Difference in Tom Regan's and Peter Singer's Position on Animal Rights Mbogo Wa Wambui, 2016-05-18

Essay from the year 2013 in the subject Philosophy Philosophy of the 20th century grade 0 7 University of Nairobi course Environmental Ethics language English abstract This paper discusses and contrasts the positions for and against the use of animals for the advancement of science Moreover the paper questions how right the use of animals is and whether we should be bothered by their sentience The issue of animal rights begins with the question of what sort of beings are deserving of moral regard Do we only treat human beings or include animals as well It also begs the question how are we supposed to treat animals Do they have moral rights When animals suffer can we equate it to human suffering Should we ban both experimentation on animals and large scale commercial farming of animal What is the moral status of animals Do we have a moral obligation to become vegetarians instead of eating animals Peter Singer in 1975 wrote a book Animal Liberation which launched the animal rights movement It was and is a call for an end to human tyranny towards animals It was a call to end the pain and suffering of animals In fact Peter Singer likened the tyranny on animals with that of white humans over black humans Peter Singer's position today is classified as utilitarianism following on Jeremy Bentham's agreement for sentience as the bar we should use to measure morality as opposed to reason The argument runs as follows Since all sentient beings have the ability to suffer it follows that they have interests And since they have interests when these are frustrated it leads to suffering

Being a utilitarian Singer's position is one that seeks to maximize satisfaction of interests whether they are of humans or animals. What about Tom Regan's position? Tom Regan on the other hand adopts a deontological rights position which is the view that animals like men are ends in themselves and therefore ought not to be exploited. Animals and humans have equal rights. In fact to Regan animals have similar essential properties like humans with regards to desires, memories and intelligence and so on and this therefore gives them equal intrinsic value like humans. Regan is more radical than Singer. Why? He calls for the total end to commercial animal farming, all hunting and trapping of animals, all animals experimentation, even eating of animals. This article discusses and contrasts the positions taken by these eminent scholars.

Animal Rights Without Liberation Alasdair Cochrane, 2012. Alasdair Cochrane introduces an entirely new theory of animal rights grounded in their interests as sentient beings. He then applies this theory to different and underexplored policy areas such as genetic engineering, pet keeping, indigenous hunting and religious slaughter. In contrast to other proponents of animal rights, Cochrane claims that because most sentient animals are not autonomous agents, they have no intrinsic interest in liberty. As such, he argues that our obligations to animals lie in ending practices that cause their suffering and death and do not require the liberation of animals. Cochrane's interest-based rights approach weighs the interests of animals to determine which is sufficient to impose strict duties on humans. In so doing, Cochrane acknowledges that sentient animals have a clear and discernable right not to be made to suffer and not to be killed, but he argues that they do not have a prima facie right to liberty. Because most animals possess no interest in leading freely chosen lives, humans have no moral obligation to liberate them. Moving beyond theory to the practical aspects of applied ethics, this pragmatic volume provides much needed perspective on the realities and responsibilities of the human-animal relationship.
