Eye Health: Challenges and Solutions Kai Cao, Mayinuer Yusufu, Jie Hao, 2024-09-30 Eye health is an important part of public health. It is estimated that more than 40 million people are blind and more than 550 million people suffer from mild to severe visual impairment by 2020. In addition, at least one billion people worldwide suffer from visual impairment, most of which could have been prevented. The majority of people with vision impairment and blindness are over the age of 50 years; however, vision loss can affect people of all ages. The World Health Organization reports that the top causes of blindness and vision loss include cataract, uncorrected ametropia, glaucoma, age-related macular disease, diabetes retinopathy, etc. As people's lifestyles change, the disease spectrum is evolving across the globe, and responses and strategies need to change in time. Efforts to reduce the prevalence, incidence, and progression of eye diseases could have a profound impact on public health. The aim of the current Research Topic is to focus on recent and novel research trends in ocular diseases: glaucoma, diabetic retinopathy, myopia, etc., and visual impairment, especially preventive strategies to avoid younger age of ocular diseases onset and vision loss. Additionally, new studies are important to identify strategies that would help better screen ocular diseases or prevent vision loss. We aim for a state-of-the-art collection of articles that will provide professionals and managers with knowledge of the risk factors, prediction, screening, management, and prevention of ocular diseases, as well as the risk factors, prediction, management, and prevention of vision loss.

Curing Medicare Andy Lazris, 2016-06-14 Andy Lazris MD is a practicing primary care physician who experiences the effects of Medicare policy on a daily basis. As a result, he believes that the way we care for our elderly has taken a wrong turn and that Medicare is complicit in creating the very problems it seeks to solve. Aging is not a disease to be cured; it is a life stage to be lived. Lazris argues that aggressive treatments cannot change that fact but only get in the way and decrease quality of life. Unfortunately, Medicare's payment structure and rules deprive the elderly of the chance to pursue less aggressive care, which often yields the most humane and effective results. Medicare encourages and will pay more readily for hospitalization than for palliative and home care. It encourages and pays for high-tech assaults on disease rather than for the primary care that can make a real difference in the lives of the elderly. Lazris offers straightforward solutions to ensure Medicare's solvency through sensible, cost-effective plans that do not restrict patient choice or negate the doctor-patient relationship. Using both data and personal stories he shows how Medicare needs to change in structure and purpose as the population ages the physician pool becomes more specialized and new medical technology becomes available Curing Medicare demonstrates which medical interventions medicines tests procedures work and which can be harmful in many common conditions in the elderly the harms and benefits of hospitalization the current culture of long term care and how Medicare often promotes care that is ineffective expensive and contrary to what many elderly patients and their families really want Braunwald's Heart Disease Review and Assessment E-Book Leonard S.
