Dual-use life science research and biosecurity in the 21st Century: Social, Technical, Policy, and Ethical Challenges Jonathan E. Suk,Kathleen M. Vogel,Amanda Jane Ozin,2015-06-04 In September 2011 scientists announced new experimental findings that would not only threaten the conduct and publication of influenza research but would have significant policy and intelligence implications The findings presented a modified variant of the H5N1 avian influenza virus hereafter referred to as the H5N1 virus that was transmissible via aerosol between ferrets These results suggested a worrisome possibility the existence of a new airborne and highly lethal H5N1 virus that could cause a deadly global pandemic In response a series of international discussions on the nature of dual use life science arose These discussions addressed the complex social technical political security and ethical issues related to dual use research This Research Topic will be devoted to contributions that explore this matrix of issues from a variety of case study and international perspectives

Oxford's Sedleian Professors of Natural Philosophy Christopher Hollings,Mark McCartney,2023-11-01 Established in the early seventeenth century following a bequest to the university by Sir William Sedley Oxford s Sedleian Professorship of Natural Philosophy is one of the university's oldest professorships. In common with other such positions established around this time such as the Savilian Professorships of Geometry and Astronomy for example its purpose was to provide centrally organised lectures on a specific subject. While the Professorship is now a high profile research post in applied mathematics it has previously been held by physicians, an astronomer and several people in the eighteenth century whose credentials in natural philosophy are much less clear. This edited volume traces the varied history of the chair through the first four centuries of its existence combining specialised contributions from historians of medicine, of science, of mathematics and of universities together with personal reminiscences of some of the more recent holders of the post.
