2014 Grade 1 Agricultural Science Paper 1:

Foreign Direct Investment in Agriculture Jan Schüpbach, 2015-10-07 Foreign direct investment in agriculture and land has increased substantially since the 2007-2008 food price crisis. However, there is a severe lack of quantitative evidence on its economic impact. Therefore, the primary goal of this study was to collect and analyze empirical evidence in order to better understand the potential benefits and pitfalls of such investments and related processes of agricultural commercialization. In particular, the study tests the effect of two strategies for including smallholder farmers into modern food supply chains: 1. Outgrower schemes, i.e. a type of contract farming whereby small-scale farmers produce crops for large-scale farming enterprises; 2. Wage employment on large-scale estates. The central part of the study looks at one specific investment project in the Zambian sugar cane sector. This sectoral focus was supplemented by a broader cross-sectoral analysis of a large nationally representative panel survey. Overall, the evidence suggests that large-scale investments by foreign as well as domestic companies, and especially the model of cooperation with smallholder farmers in outgrower schemes, can indeed have positive and significant effects on the income and wealth of rural households. Routledge

International Handbook of Rural Studies Mark Shucksmith, David L. Brown, 2016-05-20 Rural societies around the world are changing in fundamental ways both at their own initiative and in response to external forces. The Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies examines the organisation and transformation of rural society in more developed regions of the world, taking an interdisciplinary and problem-focused approach. Written by leading social scientists from many countries, it addresses emerging issues and challenges in innovative and provocative ways to inform future policy. This volume is organised around eight emerging social, economic, and environmental challenges: Demographic change, Economic transformations, Food systems and land, Environment and resources, Changing configurations of gender and rural society, Social and economic equality, Social dynamics and institutional capacity, Power and governance. Cross-cutting these challenges are the growing interdependence of rural and urban, the rise in inequality within and between places, the impact of the fiscal crisis on rural societies, neoliberalism, power and agency, and rural areas as potential sites of resistance. The Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies is required reading for anyone concerned with the future of rural areas. Critical Issues in Contemporary China Czesław Tubilewicz, 2016-12-12 Critical Issues in Contemporary China: Unity, Stability, and Development comprehensively examines key problems crucial to understanding modern-day China. Organized around three interrelated themes of unity, stability, and development, each chapter explores distinct issues and debates their significance for China domestically and for Beijing's engagement with the wider world. While presenting contending explanatory approaches, contributors advance arguments to further critical discussion on selected topics. Main issues analysed include political change, military transformation, legal reforms, economic development, energy security, environmental degradation, food security and safety, demographic trends, migration and urbanization, labour unrest, health and education, social inequalities.
