sequence of consecutive tests such as in mathematics or English language arts with a focus on grades 4-8. Teachers in these subject areas however constitute less than thirty percent of the teacher workforce in a district. Comparatively little has been written about the measurement of achievement in the other grades and subjects. This volume seeks to remedy this imbalance by focusing on the assessment of student achievement in a broad range of grade levels and subject areas with particular attention to their use in the evaluation of teachers and schools in all. It addresses traditional end of course tests as well as alternative measures such as portfolios, exhibitions and student learning objectives. In each case issues related to design and development, psychometric considerations and validity challenges are covered from both a generic and a content specific perspective. The NCME Applications of Educational Measurement and Assessment series includes edited volumes designed to inform research based applications of educational measurement and assessment. Edited by leading experts, these books are comprehensive and practical resources on the latest developments in the field. Network Science In Education Catherine B. Cramer, Mason A. Porter, Hiroki Sayama, Lori Sheetz, Stephen Miles Uzzo, 2018-10-22

Around the globe there is an increasingly urgent need to provide opportunities for learners to embrace complexity, to develop the many skills and habits of mind that are relevant to today's complex and interconnected world and to make learning more connected to our rapidly changing workplace and society. This presents an opportunity to 1) leverage new paradigms for understanding the structure and function of teaching and learning communities and 2) to promote new approaches to developing methods, curricular materials and resources. Network science, the study of connectivity, can play an important role in these activities both as an important subject in teaching and learning and as a way to develop interconnected curricula. Since 2010 an international community of network science researchers and educators has come together to raise the global level of network literacy by applying ideas from network science to teaching and learning. Network Science in Education, which refers to both this community and to its activities, has evolved in response to the escalating activity in the field of network science and the need for people to be able to access the field through education channels. Network Science In Education: Transformational Approaches in Teaching and Learning appeals to both instructors and professionals while offering case studies from a wide variety of activities that have been developed around the globe the creation of entirely new courses and degree programs tools for K 20 learners teachers and the general public and in depth analysis of selected programs As network based pedagogy and the community of practice continues to grow we hope that the book s readers will join this vibrant network education community to build on these nascent ideas and help deepen the understanding of networks for all learners
