Jones, 2025-11-18 The intellectual biography of a Victorian Liberal polymath James Bryce 1838 1922 was a leading figure in

Britain's Liberal Party and a distinguished historian a versatile scholar politician who moved seamlessly between academia and politics He was among many other things a cabinet minister and a popular ambassador an expert on American politics and on Roman law an advocate for the Armenian people and an architect of the League of Nations a world traveller and a climber of Mount Ararat In Liberal Worlds Stuart Jones offers an intellectual biography of Bryce tracing a Scots Ulster Presbyterian's assimilation to the increasingly multiconfessional Victorian state and a late Victorian Liberal's encounter with the wider world Jones shows how a polymathic intelligence grappled with a dizzyingly wide range of concerns and issues including the challenges of democracy and race relations the rise of modern universities and the reconstruction of the international order after World War I In mapping the evolution of Bryce's thought Liberal Worlds illuminates the international intellectual networks and the many places across the globe that shaped his thinking Jones considers for example why a man who had a lifelong revulsion against slavery seemed to accept racial segregation in the American South how a vigorous activist for girls and women's education became a tenacious parliamentary critic of women's suffrage and why over the objections of his Ulster Presbyterian family he backed Irish home rule Above all Jones rescues Bryce immensely influential in his time now little remembered from being consigned to a historical pigeonhole restoring him to the centre of late nineteenth and early twentieth century debates over the nature of democratic politics affairs courses at the undergraduate or graduate level      Early Childhood Governance Sharon Lynn Kagan, Rebecca E. Gomez, 2015-03-06 Nothing provided      Beyond the Boundaries Georgia A. Persons, 2017-09-29 In the past African American aspirations for political office were assumed to be limited to areas with sizeable black population bases By and large black candidates have rarely been successful in statewide or national elections This has been attributed to several factors limited resources available to African American candidates or identification with a black liberationist ideological thrust Other factors have been a relatively small and spatially concentrated primary support base of black voters and the persistent resistance of many white voters to support black candidates For these reasons the possibility of black candidates winning elections to national office was presumably just a dream Conventional wisdom conceded a virtual cap on both the possible number of black elected officials and the level of elective office to which they could ascend But objective political analysis has not always made sufficient allowances for the more universal phenomenon of individual political ambitions The contributors to this volume explore the ways ambitious individuals identified and seized upon strategies that are expanding the boundaries of African American electoral politics This volume is anchored by a symposium that focuses on new possibilities in African American politics Both the electoral contests of 2006 and the Barack Obama presidential campaign represent an emergent dynamic in American electoral politics Analysts are beginning to agree that the contours of social change now make the electoral successes of black candidates who are perceived as ideologically and culturally mainstream increasingly likely The debate captured in this volume will likely inspire further scholarly inquiry into the changing nature and dimensions of the larger dynamic of race in American politics and the subsequent changing political fortunes of African American candidates      Political Parties, Business Groups, and Corruption in Developing Countries Vineeta Yadav, 2011-04-13 Political corruption is one of the globe's most pressing yet seemingly permanent problems It is a root cause of low growth and inequality and plagues numerous nations throughout the world in varying degrees In Political Parties Business Groups and Corruption in Developing Countries Vineeta Yadav tackles the puzzle of corruption by analyzing the role that business lobbying plays in it She shows that the structure of a developing nation's legislative institutions frequently determines whether such institutions promote or restrain corruption Combining focused studies of legislative institutions and business groups in India and Brazil with a broader survey of corruption in sixty-four developing democracies Yadav shows how systems with powerful parties rather than ones with powerful individual legislators encourage the most corruption A rigorous comparative examination of the connections between political institutions lobbying and corruption this work will reshape our understanding of how developing country democracies can both discourage and encourage bribery vote buying and influence peddling      California. Court of Appeal (2nd Appellate District). Records and Briefs California (State).,      Review and Evaluation of Alternative Technologies for Demilitarization of Assembled Chemical Weapons National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Commission on Engineering and Technical Systems, Committee on Review and Evaluation of Alternative Technologies for Demilitarization of Assembled Chemical Weapons, 1999-12-24 This report examines seven disposal technologies being considered by the U S government as alternative methods to the process of incineration for destroying mortars rockets land mines and other weapons that contain chemical warfare agents such as mustard gas These weapons are considered especially dangerous because they contain both chemical warfare agent and explosive materials in an assembled package that must be disassembled for destruction The study identifies the strengths and weaknesses and advantages and disadvantages of each technology and assesses their potential for full scale implementation Information Sources of Political Science Stephen W.
