Frederick H. Clark, 1899 The Fight for Local Control Campbell F. Scribner, 2016-06-07 Throughout the twentieth century local control of school districts was one of the most contentious issues in American politics As state and federal regulation attempted to standardize public schools conservatives defended local prerogative as a bulwark of democratic values Yet their commitment to those values was shifting and selective In The Fight for Local Control Campbell F. Scribner demonstrates how in the decades after World War II suburban communities appropriated legacies of rural education to assert their political autonomy and in the process radically changed educational law Scribner's account unfolds on the metropolitan fringe where rapid suburbanization overlapped with the consolidation of thousands of small rural schools Rural residents initially clashed with their new neighbors but by the 1960s the groups had rallied to resist government oversight What began as residual opposition to school consolidation would transform into campaigns against race based busing unionized teachers tax equalization and secular curriculum In case after case suburban conservatives carved out new rights for local autonomy stifling equal educational opportunity Yet Scribner also provides insight into why many conservatives have since abandoned

localism for policies that stress school choice and federal accountability In the 1970s as new battles arose over unions textbooks and taxes districts on the rural suburban fringe became the first to assert individual choice in the form of school vouchers religious exemptions and a marketplace model of education At the same time they began to embrace tax limitation and standardized testing policies that checked educational bureaucracy but bypassed local school boards The effect Scribner concludes has been to reinforce inequalities between districts while weakening participatory government within them keeping the worst aspects of local control in place while forfeiting its virtues A History of Voting Rights Tamra

Orr,2020-05-11 Have you ever voted on something You might have voted for pizza for dinner which movie to watch or who should go first in a game If you have ever voted you know how important it is to have a voice in making decisions that are part of your life The people who created this country knew that too and took many risks to create a country where they could speak freely about what they wanted The battle for voting rights was a long one with some people being allowed to vote long before others Read about who made the decisions and who had to fight for the same rights Seeing how hard African Americans Native Americans and women fought to have the right to vote reminds everyone that voting is part of what created this country and what will help it keep growing and changing today and in the future American Government
