The Fictions of Language and the Languages of Fiction

Monika Fludernik, 2003-12-16 Monika Fludernik presents a detailed analysis of free indirect discourse as it relates to narrative theory and the crucial problematic of how speech and thought are represented in fiction Building on the insights of Ann Banfield's Unspeakable Sentences Fludernik radically extends Banfield's model to accommodate evidence from conversational narrative non-fictional prose and literary works from Chaucer to the present Fludernik's model subsumes earlier insights into the forms and functions of quotation and aligns them with discourse strategies observable in the oral language Drawing on a vast range of literature she provides an invaluable resource for researchers in the field and introduces English readers to extensive work on the subject in German as well as comparing the free indirect discourse features of German French and English This study effectively repositions the whole area between literature and linguistics opening up a new set of questions in narrative theory

Russian Realisms

Molly Brunson, 2016-09-10 One fall evening in 1880 Russian painter Ilya Repin welcomed an unexpected visitor to his home Lev Tolstoy The renowned realists talked for hours and Tolstoy turned his critical eye to the sketches in Repin's studio Tolstoy's criticisms would later prompt Repin to reflect on the question of creative expression and conclude that the path to artistic truth is relative dependent on the mode and medium of representation In this original study Molly Brunson traces many such paths that converged to form the tradition of nineteenth century Russian realism a tradition that spanned almost half a century from the youthful projects of the Natural School and the critical realism of the age of reform to the mature masterpieces of Tolstoy Fyodor Dostoevsky and the paintings of the Wanderers Repin chief among them By examining the classics of the tradition Brunson explores the emergence of multiple realisms from the gaps disruptions and doubts that accompany the self-conscious project of representing reality These manifestations of realism are united not by how they look or what they describe but by their shared awareness of the fraught yet critical task of representation By tracing the engagement of literature and painting with aesthetic debates on the sister arts Brunson argues for a conceptualization of realism that transcends artistic media Russian Realisms integrates the lesser known tradition of Russian painting with the familiar masterpieces of Russia's great novelists highlighting both the common ground in their struggles for artistic realism and their cultural autonomy and legitimacy This erudite study will appeal to scholars interested in Russian literature and art comparative literature art history and nineteenth century realist movements

Translation Classics in Context

Paul F. Bandia, James Hadley, Siobhán McElduff, 2024-07-31 Translation Classics in Context carefully considers the relationship between translation and the classics It presents readers with revelatory and insightful case studies that investigate translations produced as part of nexuses of colonial resistance and liberation across Africa and in Ireland translations of novels and folklore collections that influence not just other fictions but stage productions and entire historical disciplines struggles over Ukrainian and Russian literature and how it is shaped and transferred and the role of the academy and the curriculum in creating notions of classic translations Along the way it covers oral poetry saints scholars Walter Scott and Jules Verne not to mention Leo Tolstoy and the Corpse Bride making her way from folklore to Frankenstein and into the world of Disney animation Contributors are all leading scholars and the book is accessible and engaging assuming no specialist knowledge Chapter 6 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

The present volume has as its primary aim readings from a feminist perspective of a number of works from Russian literature published over the period in which the woman question rose to the fore and reached its peak All the works considered here were produced in or hark back to a fairly narrowly defined period of not quite 20 years 1846-1864 in which issues of gender of male and female roles were discussed much more keenly than in perhaps any other period in Russian literature The overall project is summed up by the three key words of this book's title narrative space and gender and especially the interconnections between them That is what do the way these stories were told tell us about gender identities in mid nineteenth century Russia Which spaces were central to these fictional worlds Which spaces suggested which gender identities The discussions therefore focus on issues of narrative and space and how they acted as technologies of gender This volume will be of interest to all interested in nineteenth century Russian literature as well as students of gender and of the semiotics of narrative space
