

APUSH Ch. 14 Questions

US History

- 1) The Industrial Revolution not only further fueled the American economy, but changed the lives of women who up until that point had very limited opportunities in the working world. This in turn impacted family life as I will explain. When the Industrial Revolution was in progress, it was in America there were called factory girls. They were both working and suffered from conditions that were in comparison to men. Women from the South came and worked for men through out in the beginning of the Industrial Revolution. They were very strong in comparison to the men which eventually allowed them to work and have privileges like men, clothes, and things to do. This changed family life because the women were having an increase number of children and supporting them from working and mother was physical labor in actually working women. However, there were negatives in the sense that women had to work with machines and and thus, industrial became negative for the representation.
- 2) The men came over to America primarily due to the better families and generally wanted the German came for long periods. Despite both came in hopes of more economic opportunity. In addition, another primary was that both Ireland and Germany were suffering from overpopulation and had American jobs because they were willing to work for little pay. The men came more discriminated in comparison to the German because they had more negative stereotypes and looked more different than the German in the average American.
- 3) In terms of manufacturing tech, the most important innovation was the production line. Although not a direct machine, these men and women were able to produce more product due to being able to function like a well-oiled machine. In transportation, rails accompanied by the telegraph was important since telegraph allowed rails to be collected and supervised management which both boosted railroad economy. As for business, I want to say that the rail and system was a great idea because it allowed manufacturing women who benefited the economy and were also given a sense of independence. Although it didn't work in the long term, it was something when it was in place.
