

12 to Mexico with full powers to adjust every existing difference. But though present on Mexican soil by 13 agreement between the two Governments, invested with full powers, and bearing evidence of the 14 most friendly dispositions, no mission has been unending. The Mexican Government not only refused 15 to receive him or listen to his propositions, but after a long-continued series of menacing threats of host-16 invaded our territory and shed the blood of our fellow-citizens on our own soil.
 18 Texas, by the final act of our Congress, had become an integral part of our Union. The 19 Congress of Texas, by its act of December 29, 1845, had declared the Rio del Norte to be the boundary 20 of that Republic... The movement of the troops to the Rio Norte was made by the commanding general 21 under positive instructions to abstain from all aggressive acts toward Mexico or Mexican citizens and to 22 regard the relations between that Republic and the United States as peaceful unless she should declare 23 war or commit acts of hostility indicative of a state of war: he was especially directed to protect private 24 property and respect personal rights.
 25 A war exists, and, notwithstanding all our efforts to avoid it, exists by the act of Mexico herself. We are 26 called upon by every consideration of duty and patriotism to vindicate with decision the honor, the 27 rights, and the interests of our country.

CURTIS, THE CLAYMAN KICK Read Henry Clay's response to the Mexican-American war. Clay, a Whig, had tried to run for president in 1844, and lost. Clay was more focused on building the United States economy. The Whig Party also tried to appear as a political "middle ground" between the North and South.

"The day is dark and gloomy, unsettled and uncertain, like the condition of our country, in regard to the question that with Mexico. The public mind is agitated and anxious, and is filled with serious apprehensions as to its indefinite continuance, and especially as to the consequences which its termination may bring forth, menacing the harmony, if not the existence, of our Union."

Historical Context: After the Mexican American War ended in 1848, the United States had officially stretched from the west coast to the east coast. The Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo officially ended the Mexican American War.

In order to further complete the buying of land, the Gadsden Purchase was completed and the United States received the Oregon Territory.
