1.1 Why choose AQA for AS and A-level Chemistry

Relevant in the classroom and the real world

We involved over a thousand teachers in developing these specifications, to ensure that the subject content is relevant to real world experiences and is interesting to teach and learn. We've also presented it in a straightforward way, giving you the freedom to teach in the way that works for your students.

These chemistry specifications are a stepping stone to future study, which is why we also consulted universities, to ensure these specifications allow students to develop the skills that they want to see.

This approach has led to specifications that will help you to inspire students, nurture their passion for chemistry and lay the groundwork for further study in courses such as chemistry, medicine and pharmacy.

The way you teach – your choice

These specifications have been written with minimal context. This means that you can select the context and applications that you feel bring the subject alive. To support you, we have also produced a range of excellent teaching resources that you can use alongside your own.

Flexibility at the heart of science

Our new specifications for chemistry are fundamentally an experimental subject. These specifications ensure that you have the freedom to teach in the way that works for your students, and that you can select the context and applications that you feel bring the subject alive.

Teach AS and A-level together

Our new specifications for AS and A-level chemistry are designed to be taught together. This allows you to select the context and applications that you feel bring the subject alive, and to teach in the way that works for your students.
